Enduring Understandings

- - Poets make deliberate and thoughtful decisions about style, tone, rhythm, structure and word choice that can be interpreted in many ways
 - Poetry can take many forms, each designed to capture some powerful feeling, moment or idea in a way that prose or another genre of writing may not be able to.
 - The way a director chooses to stage/film a scene can completely alter the audience's understanding of a theme.
 - Certain themes are timeless -- a text written to appeal to an audience hundreds of years ago, can still be relevant today, though you have to step out of your comfort zone to get access to its magic.
 - Even if we know what happens in a text, our enjoyment of the text can come from a variety of other elements (e.g. the beauty of the language, coming to understand how the end comes to pass, the tension created when we know what is going to happen, but can do nothing to stop it).

Accel ONLY - Enduring Understandings

Essential Questions

- - How do poets express self, identity and other themes in their work?
 - Why do poets choose to write in poetry rather than prose? What makes a text poetic?
 - How can we express ourselves through poetry...do we dare?
 - Is there such a thing as love at first sight? What is the difference between true love and infatuation? Are either worth dying for?
 - Is there such a thing as destiny or do we control our fate? How do we make good decisions in the face of forces we have difficulty controlling?
 - How does unchecked prejudice and hatred proliferate? How can we step outside of long-standing conflicts to come to a solution?

Learning Activities

Texts + Possible Learning Activities

1.Text: Poetry Packet (3 weeks) -- including “Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening,” “The Road Not Taken,” Shakespearean sonnets -- Students will prepare a read poetry and prepare a Poetry Portfolio (see ideas for entries below)

- Snowball thoughts about poetry -- write honest thoughts/feelings about poetry and crumple it up on a piece of paper and throw them around the room until teacher says stop. pick one up and share them aloud.
- Review of poetic devices and terms (game, or think aloud with Billy Collin’s “Workshop” or “Introduction to Poetry”) <https://thejoyofteachingblog.wordpress.com/diy-3/annotating-text/>
- Give students a packet of classic and modern poems (ideally a range of poems, including poems that the teacher is passionate about, along with poems that speak to some of the key themes in R & J). Here is a sample Freshman Poetry Anthology packet (this pairs with the Poetry Portfolio assignment below).
 - (Other poems to consider: “To His Coy Mistress,” “I Do Not Love You Except Because I Love You” Pablo Neruda, “Fruit Cocktail in Light Syrup” Amy Gerstler poem about food of youth/generation -- what it says about a culture), “Like Him” Aaron Smith, “Deer Hit” Jon Loomis,) Poems for Teens: <http://www.poets.org/poetsorg/anthology/poems-teens>) or [this packet that has been used in the past
- Have students create a Poetry Portfolio in response to the poems in the packet (click on the link to see examples of what students could do with the poems).

2. Text: Romeo and Juliet (play and Luhrmann & Zeffirelli films, perhaps also a scene from West Side Story? Gnomeo and Juliet -- as homework to prepare for modern adaptation) -- 5 weeks

- Introduction to Shakespearean Language/Drama -- tone activity (write a simple phrase on the board and have students generate a list of words describing tone; give each student or a pair of students a tone word on a slip of paper; they act out the phrase in that tone and students name the tone); throwing lines activity with prologue (note sonnet features, spoiler alert: why would Shakespeare give away the ending?)
- Define true love -- what it is and what it is not (in pairs) -- share out in chart, then evaluate (anyone disagree with any of the “love is/is nots”? Keep chart up on wall throughout unit - Is R + J a love story? + have students come up with an argument about the relationship between fate and personal responsibility -- could do a silent debate?

- Read aloud of key scenes (answer questions about plot, setting, tone, characterization, theme, etc. -- questions may be answered for hw)
- Watch scenes from Luhrmann film (consider having student watch a scene they know without sound/then watch again while faced away from the screen: what do they notice about staging, costume, lighting, movement, setting, casting, facial expression/tone, volume, pace of speech, sound effects, music) -- can compare two versions of the same scene
- At the end of the play (after the essay), students will choose a scene and rewrite it/adapt it/modernize it for a major grade
- Midpoint -- introduce essay topics; give students time to make argument notes in pairs at the end of each important scene (consider incorporating the Frontline documentary, Romeo and Juliet in Sarajevo at some point -- as a homework? or in class? real-world connection, incorporate into essay)
- Explore other Informational Texts: e.g. Talking to Your Parents-or Other Adults", TeensHealth, Reviewed by Neil Izenberg, MD, 8-06; Media Special Report -- "The Teen Brain" PBS Online News Hour, 10-04; "Inside the Teenage Brain" PBS Frontline [could use in MP2 instead re: Catcher/HOMS]
- Outline and draft and revise essay (with teacher conferencing as needed); begin working on performance assessment; while students work, teachers can alternate on supervision/grading of essays
- FISHBOWL/ DEBATE with students in outer circle posting questions and comments into a Today's Meet (re: Were Romeo and Juliet truly in love?/Is Romeo and Juliet truly a love story? or to what degree could Romeo and Juliet have controlled their fate?)

Ideas for Differentiation/Accommodations & Modifications:

- Scaffolding essay writing - modified outlines as needed for students, structured timelines for editing, revision; Building appropriate thesis statements and topic sentences; Reduction of writing tasks by 25% to 30% as needed per IEP; Word banks as needed per IEP for tests/quizzes; R + J selections (not entire text); Scene summaries (scene graphic organizers) - stronger students can build their own, can be scaffolded for needier students; Character chart; Give limited list of scenes for End of Unit activity; Glossary of poetic devices seen in poetry unit and R + J with examples
