

2022 AP Studio Art Unit 3: Pastel

Content Area: Fine and Performing Arts
Course(s): Advanced Placement Studio Art
Time Period: December
Length: 1
Status: Published

Unit Overview:

The third unit of study in the AP Studio course introduces students to Pastels as a medium. Students will begin by creating a Macro Drawing of Pasta set up as a mini still life. They will take variously shaped pasta pieces and arrange onto black matte board to create their macro designs. Students will use the subtractive method again to create a black base to add their gray valued pastels onto. Students will use a full range of value and really focus on the positive and negative shapes created in their pasta pieces. The second lesson in the Pastel Unit is a Fauvist Portrait. Students will be introduced to Fauvism and artists such as Henri Matisse and will use Photoshop to manipulate their images into fauvist colors. Students will then use the pastel techniques to create large portraits in bright pastel colors. Students are also introduced to a variety of art history movements as well as famous artists.

Essential Questions:

- How can a body of work be a roadmap to their artistic development?
- What are the threads that tie a series of works together?
- Why is exhibiting artwork important?

- How does knowing the contexts, histories and traditions of art forms help us create works of art and design?
- Why do artists follow or break from established traditions?
- How do artists determine what resources and criteria are needed to formulate artistic investigations?
- How do artists and designers learn from trial and error?
- How do artists and designers care for and maintain materials, tools and equipment?
- Why is it important, for safety and health, to understand and follow correct procedures in handling materials, tools and equipment?

Enduring Understandings:

- The process of reflection enables one to understand and appreciate art.
- Art is a distinct form of communication that enriches the understanding of other disciplines.
- Art is an inherent and integral part of our environment.
- Artists and designers shape artistic investigations, following or breaking with traditions in pursuit of creative art-making goals.
- Artists and designers experiment with forms, structures, materials, concepts, media, and art-making approaches.
- Artists and designers balance experimentation and safety, freedom and responsibility, while developing and creating artworks.
- People create and interact with objects, places and design that define, shape, enhance, and empower their lives.

Equity Considerations

Holocaust Mandate

Topic: Art Created by Victims and Survivors

Whether satirical, fantastical, or realistic, art created by victims and survivors of genocide depicts the complex human responses to persecution, and to the destruction of one's life and culture. During and after the Holocaust, individuals in ghettos, concentration camps, postwar DP camps, etc. lacked access to basic supplies. The resulting artworks thus varied widely in size, medium, and preservability. Although a lot of art has survived, much of it has not. Therefore, art is just one (i.e., is not the only) way to grapple with horrific events as they unfolded. Nevertheless, a wealth of resources are available to teach about the Holocaust using art made by victims and survivors.

Materials Used:

Collections include artwork created by victims and survivors of the Holocaust. Below are links to selected materials, which include image scans, biographical information of artists, and other relevant information.

- Art of the Holocaust is a site devoted to art of the Holocaust from the University of South Florida. It includes Nazi art, art by survivors, and teaching guides.
- Learning About the Holocaust Through Art is an important contribution to Holocaust education. This website provides high-quality reproductions of art works produced during the Holocaust. It also includes biographies of the artists and histories of the ghettos and camps in which the artists were interned. Study resources and lesson plans support its use in the classroom, and an interactive section enables users to choose and annotate works for their own online collection. The website is available in English, Hebrew, Russian and Spanish. The website has been jointly produced by World ORT (an international educational charity) and Beit Lohamei Haghetat (Ghetto Fighters' House Museum - a major Holocaust museum in the Western Galilee).
- Exhibitions: Yad Vashem is a collection of online exhibitions produced by Yad Vashem, the State of Israel's memorial to the Holocaust.
- Imperial War Museum (UK) - Artist Responses to the Holocaust
- From Google Arts and Culture - Art and the Holocaust

Addresses the Following Component of the Mandate:

The instruction shall enable pupils to identify and analyze applicable theories concerning human nature and behavior: to understand that genocide is a consequence of prejudice and discrimination: and to understand that issues of moral dilemma and conscience have a profound impact on life. The instruction shall further emphasize the personal responsibility that each citizen bears to fight racism and hatred whenever and wherever it happens.

LGBTQ and Disabilities Mandate

Topic (Person and Contribution Addresses):

As long as people have been making art, LGBTQ+ artists have been painting from their perspective. From gay painters like Keith Haring, Jean Michel Basquiat and Andy Warhol to bisexuals like Frida Kahlo and trans artists like Lili Elbe and Jeffrey Catherine Jones, the rainbow of great LGBTQ+ painters stretches around the world.

All of these artists have created amazing bodies of work and changed art history books for the better, but it's more difficult to determine who has truly left their mark.

Students will:

- identify and analyze symbols that have played an important part in fighting for equal rights for LGBT people.
- define a relationship between art and activism.

describe elements of art or symbols that encourage awareness and change.

Climate Change

Climate change art is art inspired by climate change and global warming, generally intended to overcome humans' hardwired tendency to value personal experience over data and to disengage from data-based representations by making the data "vivid and accessible". Social Issues Art Lessons discussing the following possible topics that deal with Climate Change.

- increase the climate literacy of the United States by broadening the understanding of human-induced climate change, including possible consequences, disproportionate impacts of such consequences, and potential solutions;
- apply the latest scientific and technological discoveries to provide learning opportunities to people of all ages; and
- help people understand and promote implementation of new technologies, programs, and incentives related to climate change, climate adaptation and mitigation, climate resilience, climate justice, and environmental justice.

Addresses the Following Component of the Mandate:

Artists have many layered identities and art educators need to present them as such.

Representing diverse artists in your curriculum is only part of an Anti-Bias, Anti-Racist curriculum. It needs to be more than a symbolic effort and art educators need to take into account intersectionality when introducing these artists to students. How do aspects of an artists' social and political identities (ex. gender, sex, race, class, sexuality, religion, ability, physical appearance, etc.) intersect within their work?

In addition, we recognize that race is socially constructed and it is impossible to put humans in clearly defined categories by race. Racial identity is deeply personal, and artists within any given subgroup define themselves differently. Race, ethnicity, and nationality are all factors artist's individually consider as their personal identity. However, as mentioned previously that is not all that there is to their identity. We know that artists have many layered identities and art educators need to do the research to present them as such. These groupings are not perfect, as humans are not meant to be divided into boxes. We hope this resource can help art educators identify who is missing from their curriculum in order to create a curriculum more representative of the incredible diversity among students and artists today.

Computer networks can be used to connect individuals to other individuals, places, information, and ideas. The Internet enables individuals to connect with others worldwide.

Individuals use computing devices to perform a variety of tasks accurately and quickly. Computing devices interpret and follow the instructions they are given literally.

Technology has changed the way people live and work. Various tools can improve daily tasks and quality of life.

People work together to develop programs for a purpose, such as expressing ideas or addressing problems. The development of a program involves identifying a sequence of events, goals, and expected outcomes, and addressing errors (when necessary).
