Unit Overview:

Students will learn how to explain a minor illness to a doctor, describe their feelings, have a prescription filled at a pharmacy, describe characteristics and conditions, tell where things are and where they are from, tell where someone else or something is now, tell what happens to you or someone else.

Essential Questions:

- How do I keep communication going and know that I am being understood?
- How do I understand what I hear when I'm learning a new language?
- How do I recognize what is important when reading a passage?
- How does understanding the lives of others influence how I interact with the world?

Enduring Understandings:

- Understanding the lifestyles and values of other cultures connects people.
- Effective communication requires that students use language in a variety of settings and for multiple purposes.
- Active listening requires understanding, interpreting, and giving appropriate responses.
- Bilingualism is a necessary component of communication in a global economy.
- It's necessary to use appropriate vocabulary, correct language structure, and patterns to communicate effectively in another language.

Standards/Indicators/Student Learning Objectives (SLOs):

- Identify characteristics of the doctors offices and pharmacies in target culture communities as found in culturally authentic materials.
- Recognize previously learned words and phrases and determine the meaning of unknown words related to health and feelings in the target culture as found in highly contextualized, age- and level-appropriate culturally authentic texts.
- Identify the main idea and other significant ideas associated with how people stay healthy in a community as found in age- and level-appropriate culturally authentic material from the target culture.
- Use digital tools and face-to-face communication to ask and answer questions regarding how people from linguistically and culturally diverse communities stay healthy or express illness to someone.
