Students use MLA and The BIG6 information literacy model to conduct problem-based research projects.

UNIT DESCRIPTION

Stage 1-- Desired Results

Unit Purpose:

In Honors English 9, students will write a personal narrative and transform the narrative into a performative story. The purpose of this unit is to apply the NJSL Writing Narrative skills while also considering the purpose of a storyteller to, as Chinua Achebe the author of Things Fall Apart writes, "makes us what we are, who creates history." Students will engage in the writing process by gathering ideas from personal sources, reading mentor narratives, collecting and implementing craft moves from professional authors, writing independently, and revising both independently and with peers. Students will self-select topics. Throughout the unit, students will demonstrate application of standards through individual conferences and drafting. By the end of the unit, students will demonstrate application of the standards through a final personal narrative and performative storytelling project.

Established Goals: New Jersey Student Learning Standards: English Language Arts Grades 9 and 10

Explicit:

W.9-10.3. Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using effective technique, well-chosen details, and well-structured event sequences.

A. Engage and orient the reader by setting out a problem, situation, or observation, establishing one or multiple point(s) of view, and introducing a narrator and/or characters; create a smooth progression of experiences or events.

B. Use narrative techniques, such as dialogue, pacing, description, reflection, and multiple plot lines, to develop experiences, events, and/or characters.

C. Use a variety of techniques to sequence events so that they build on one another to create a coherent whole.

D. Use precise words and phrases, telling details, and sensory language to convey a vivid picture of the experiences, events, setting, and/or characters.

E. Provide a conclusion that follows from and reflects on what is experienced, observed, or resolved over the course of the narrative.

W.9-10.4. Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1–3 above.)

W.9-10.5. Develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, trying a new approach, or consulting a style manual (such as MLA or APA Style), focusing on addressing what is most significant for a specific purpose and audience.

Implicit:

W.9-10.6. Use technology, including the Internet, to produce, share, and update individual or shared writing products, taking advantage of technology’s capacity to link to other information and to display information flexibly and dynamically.

W.9-10.10. Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Understandings:

Students will understand that...

Writers employ various craft and structural elements in order to develop a story, paying close attention to language choices, specific details, and conciseness.

Writing a story can help an author make sense of "fragments" of experiences, even seemingly insignificant ones.

Writers explore a moment to capture meaning.

Essential Questions:

How do narrative techniques aid in developing real or imagined experiences?

How can a writer draw a conclusion or reflect upon an experience?

Why is it necessary to write and share stories?

Students will know...

Narrative Techniques.

How to engage in the writing process, including self-selecting a topic.
