Course Description

Credits: 5

Prerequisite: 85 in English 10 Honors OR 91 in English 10 CP with teacher recommendation

Grade: 11

This course is designed for the student who has developed an exceptional proficiency in critical reading and thinking as well as advanced writing skills. Students are challenged with numerous fictional literary readings from several genres and related non-fiction. In addition, students complete many writing assignments and extensive outside readings. Students explore the modes of writing on a more sophisticated level; journal writing will address students' creative talents while other assignments will be analytical in nature. Students use MLA and The BIG6 information literacy model to conduct problem-based research projects.

Unit Description

Stage 1-- Desired Results

Unit Purpose:

In this unit students will read historical fiction in book clubs. The 11th grade Honors teacher will teach the same standards from 9th and 10th grade but will increase the rigor. The 11th grade Honors teacher will teach the skills based on the explicit standards and now focus on the emphasis of student interest and the nuances of reading literature. 12th grade teachers refresh/review those same skills from the year prior to check for complete understanding.

Established Goals:

The main focus of 11th grade will be to read a historical fiction novel and complete a historical timeline comparative analysis.

New Jersey Student Learning Standards: English Language Arts Grades 11 and 12

Understandings:

Essential Questions:

Students will understand that...

- How do readers tackle complex texts?

- Effective readers can identify and understand how historical fiction enhances understanding of history.

- Authors write historical fiction to inform the reader about an event or period of time.

- We interpret our world through the lens of our culture, our religion and our political views.

- Historical Fiction is based on a historical time period that can be supported by researching nonfiction.

- Whose story is it? Who has the power in this story? How does that impact the author's message?

- How does reading historical fiction help us make sense of the world?

- What are the main settings of the novel and how do they impact the readers' understanding of the plot?

- What major internal and external conflicts are presented in the novel?

- How does the author incorporate both fictional and historical elements?

Students will know...

- Readers separate their perspective from that of the main characters.

- Readers understand that characters exist in a relationship with history, and are affected by the social pressures, community norms, and historical atmosphere around them.

- Readers work in clubs to synthesize as many details as possible, and it is important to listen carefully to each other, build on each other's comments, and honor relationships so that every club member feels valued.

- Strong readers can use tools such as timelines, graphic organizers, and lists of characters to enhance comprehension.

Students will be able to...

- Read historical fiction and analyze significance pertaining to the historical event and timeline.

- Figure out the main character's timeline and the historical timeline.

- Realize that a character's perspective is shaped by the times and by his/her roles.

- Determine themes and support them with evidence from across the story and nonfiction pieces.
