Enduring Understandings

- The new concept of the sovereign state and secular systems of law played a central role in the creation of new political institutions.
- The competitive state system led to new patterns of diplomacy and new forms of warfare.
- The competition between monarchs and corporate groups produced different distributions of governmental authority in European states.
- New ideas in science based on observation, experimentation, and mathematics challenged classical views of the cosmos, nature, and the human body, although folk traditions of knowledge and the universe persisted.
- In much of Europe, absolute monarchy was established over the course of the 17th and 18th centuries.
- Challenges to absolutism resulted in alternative political systems.
- After 1648, dynastic and state interests influenced the diplomacy of European states and frequently led to war.
- The consumer revolution of the 18th century was shaped by a new concern for privacy (ex: the boudoir), encouraged the purchase of new goods for homes (ex: porcelain dishes, cotton and linens, mirrors, prints), and created new venues for leisure activities (ex: coffeehouses, taverns, theaters, opera houses).
- The family remained the primary social and economic institution of early modern Europe and took several forms, including the nuclear family.
- Popular culture, leisure activities, and rituals reflecting the persistence of folk ideas reinforced and sometimes challenged communal ties and norms.

- By the 18th century, family and private life reflected new demographic patterns and the effects of the commercial revolution.

Essential Questions

- What are the attributes of a secularly based and oriented political system?
- In what ways can personal motivations of political leaders affect the territories over which they rule?
- How does an international political and/or economic system, inherently rooted in competition, manifest itself?
- How can a scientific method, rooted in observation and experimentation, contribute to collective human knowledge?
- What gives a ruler legitimacy?
- What makes a state sovereign?
- What methods do rulers use to justify their power and/or maintain control?
- What are the connections between beliefs about human nature and politics or political worldviews?

Content

1. New Monarchies laid the foundation for the centralized modern state by establishing a monopoly on tax collection, military force, and the dispensing of justice, and gaining the right to determine the religion of their subjects. (ex: Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain consolidating control of the military, Star Chamber, Concordat of Bologna (1516), Peace of Augsburg (1555), Edict of Nantes (1598))
2. The Peace of Westphalia (1648), which marked the effective end of the medieval ideal of universal Christendom, accelerated the decline of the Holy Roman Empire by granting princes, bishops, and other local leaders control over religion.
3. Across Europe, commercial and professional groups gained power and played a greater role in political affairs. (ex: Merchants and financiers in Renaissance Italy and northern Europe, Nobles of the robe in France, Gentry in England)
4. Secular political theories, such as those espoused in Machiavelli's The Prince, provided a new concept of the state (ex: Jean Bodin, Hugo Grotius)
5. Following the Peace of Westphalia, religion no longer was a cause for warfare among European states; instead, the concept of the balance of power played an important role in structuring diplomatic and military objectives.
6. Advances in military technology (i.e., the military revolution) led to new forms of warfare, including greater reliance on infantry, firearms, mobile cannon, and more elaborate fortifications, all financed by heavier taxation and requiring a larger bureaucracy. Technology, tactics, and strategies tipped the balance of power toward states able to marshal sufficient resources for the new military environment. (ex: Spain under the Habsburgs, Sweden under Gustavus Adolphus, France)
7. The English Civil War, a conflict between the monarchy, Parliament, and other elites over their respective roles in the political structure exemplified the competition for power between monarchs and corporate groups (ex: James I, Charles I, Oliver Cromwell)
8. Monarchies seeking enhanced power faced challenges from nobles who wished to retain traditional forms of shared governance and regional autonomy (ex: Louis XIII and Cardinal Richelieu, the Fronde in France, the Catalan Revolts in Spain)

9. Mannerist and Baroque artists employed distortion, drama, and illusion in works commissioned by monarchies, city-states, and the church for public buildings to promote their stature and power. (ex: El Greco, Artemisia Gentileschi, Gian Bernini, Peter Paul Rubens)
10. New ideas and methods in astronomy led individuals such as Copernicus, Galileo, and Newton to question the authority of the ancients and religion to develop a heliocentric view of the cosmos.
11. Anatomical and medical discoveries by physicians, including William Harvey, presented the body as an integrated system, challenging the traditional humoral theory of the body and of disease espoused by Galen. (ex: Parcelsus, Andreas Vesalius)
12. Francis Bacon and Rene Descartes defined inductive and deductive reasoning and promoted experimentation and the use of mathematics, which would ultimately shape the scientific method.
13. Alchemy and astrology continued to appeal to elites and some natural philosophers, in part because they shared with the new science the notion of a predictable and knowable universe. In the oral culture of peasants, a believe that the cosmos was governed by divine and demonic forces persisted. (ex: Parcelsus, Gerolamo Cardano, Johannes Kepler, Sir Isaac Newton)
14. Absolute monarchies limited the nobility's participation in governance but preserved the aristocracy's social position and legal privileges. (ex: James I of England; Peter the Great; Philip II, III, and IV of Spain)
15. Louis XIV and his finance minister, Jean-Baptiste Colbert, extended the administrative, financial, military, and religious control of the central state over the French population.
16. In the 18th century, a number of states in eastern and central Europe experimented with enlightened absolutism. (ex: Frederick II of Prussia, Joseph II of Austria)
17. The inability of the Polish monarchy to consolidate its authority over the nobility led to Poland's partition by Prussia, Russia, and Austria, and its disappearance from the map of Europe.
18. Peter the Great "westernized" the Russian state and society, transforming political, religious, and cultural institutions; Catherine the Great continued this process.
19. Baroque artists employed distortion, drama, and illusion in works commissioned by monarchies, city-states, and the church for public buildings to promote their stature and power. (ex: El Greco, Artemisia Gentileschi, Gian Bernini, Peter Paul Rubens)
20. The Dutch Republic developed an oligarchy of urban gentry and rural landholders to promote trade and protect traditional rights.
21. As a result of the Holy Roman Empire's limitation of sovereignty in the Peace of Westphalia, Prussia rose to power and the Habsburgs, centered in Austria, shifted their empire eastward. (ex: Maria Theresa of Austria, Frederick William I of Prussia, Frederick II of Prussia)
22. After the Austrian defeat of the Turks in 1683 at the Battle of Vienna, the Ottomans ceased their westward expansion.
23. Louis XIV's nearly continuous wars, pursuing both dynastic and state interests, provoked a coalition of European powers opposing him. (ex: Dutch War, Nine Years' War, War of the Spanish Succession)
24. Rivalry between Britain and France resulted in world wars fought both in Europe and in the colonies, with Britain supplanting France as the greatest European power.
25. Rural and urban households worked as units, with men and women engaged in separate but complementary tasks.
26. The Renaissance and Reformation movements raised debates about female roles in the family, society, and the church (ex: women's intellect and education, women as preachers, La Querelle des Femmes)
27. From the late 16th century forward, Europeans responded to economic and environmental challenges, such as the "Little Ice Age," by delaying marriage and childbearing, which restrained population growth and ultimately improved the economic condition of families.
28. Leisure activities continued to be organized according to religious calendar and the agricultural cycle and remained communal in nature (ex: Saint's day festivities, carnival, blood sports)
29. Local and church authorities continued to enforce communal norms through rituals of public humiliation (ex: charivari, stocks, public whipping and branding)

30. Although the rate of illegitimate births increased in the 18th century, population growth was limited by the European marriage pattern and, in some areas, by the early practice of birth control.
31. As infant and child mortality decreased and commercial wealth increased, families dedicated more space and resources to children and child-rearing, as well as private life and comfort.
32. The Agricultural Revolution produced more food using fewer workers; as a result, people migrated from rural areas to the cities in search of work

Skills

1. Analyze how expanding commerce during the 16th and 17th centuries led to the growth of cities and changes in the social structure. (PP-6, RH.11-12.9)
2. Explain how political revolution and war during the 17th century altered the role of the church in political and intellectual life and the response of religious authorities and intellectuals to such challenges. (OS-3, 6.2.12.A.2.b, RH.11-12.1, RH.11-12.2, RH.11-12.3, RH.11-12.4, RH.11-12.6, RH.11-12.7, RH.11-12.9)
3. Explain how new theories of government (absolutism and constitutionalism) attempted to provide a coherent explanation for human behavior and the extent to which they adhered to or diverged from traditional explanations based on religious beliefs. Standards

LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.1	Cite specific textual evidence to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, connecting insights gained from specific details to an understanding of the text as a whole.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.2	Determine the central ideas or information of a primary or secondary source; provide an accurate summary that makes clear the relationships among the key details and ideas.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.3	Evaluate various explanations for actions or events and determine which explanation best accords with textual evidence, acknowledging where the text leaves matters uncertain.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including

12.4	analyzing how an author uses and refines the meaning of a key term over the course of a text (e.g., how Madison defines faction in Federalist No. 10).
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.5	Analyze in detail how a complex primary source is structured, including how key sentences, paragraphs, and larger portions of the text contribute to the whole.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.6	Evaluate authors' differing points of view on the same historical event or issue by assessing the authors' claims, reasoning, and evidence.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.7	Integrate and evaluate multiple sources of information presented in diverse formats and media (e.g., visually, quantitatively, as well as in words) in order to address a question or solve a problem.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.8	Evaluate an author's premises, claims, and evidence by corroborating or challenging them with other information.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.9	Integrate information from diverse sources, both primary and secondary, into a coherent understanding of an idea or event, noting discrepancies among sources.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.10	By the end of grade 12, read and comprehend history/social studies texts in the grades 11-CCR text complexity band independently and proficiently.
