Enduring Understandings

- The French Revolution posed a fundamental challenge to Europe’s existing political and social order.
- Claiming to defend the ideals of the French Revolution, Napoleon Bonaparte imposed French control over much of the European continent that eventually provoked a nationalistic reaction
- Cities offered economic opportunities, which attracted increasing migration from rural areas, transforming urban life and creating challenges for the new urbanites and their families.
- Great Britain established its industrial dominance through the mechanization of textile production, iron and steel production, and new transportation systems.
- Following the British example, industrialization took root in continental Europe, sometimes with state sponsorship.
- Industrialization promoted the development of new classes in the industrial regions of Europe.
- Europe experienced rapid population growth and urbanization, leading to social dislocations.
- Over time, the Industrial Revolution altered the family structure and relations for bourgeois and working-class families.
- Because of the persistence of primitive agricultural practices and land-owning patterns, some areas of Europe lagged in industrialization while facing famine, debt, and land shortages. (ex: The “Hungry ‘40s,” Irish potato famine, Russian serfdom)
- Ideologies developed and took root throughout society as a response to the industrial revolution.

Essential Questions

- What is a “revolution”? In what circumstances can revolutions take place?
- What can written political or philosophical ideas look like in action?
- What does it mean to be radical, moderate, or conservative? How might one’s worldview determine one’s place during a time of social and political change?
- What tensions could potentially exist between demands for social change and liberation, and demands for law and order?
- Why and how can societies export their political and cultural values? Why and how could this be problematic?
- What factors are required for an industrial revolution to take place?
- What are the human consequences of industrialization and industrial life?
- In what ways can economic changes break down old social hierarchies or create new ones?

- What potential relationships can exist between government and economy?
- What relationships and tensions may exist between economic “progress” and human well-being?
- In what ways does political ideology provide a way of organizing and understanding economic, social, or political realities?

Content

1. Revolution, war, and rebellion demonstrated the emotional power of mass politics and nationalism.
2. The French Revolution resulted from a combination of long-term social and political causes, as well as Enlightenment ideas, exacerbated by short-term fiscal and economic crises.
3. The first, or liberal, phase of the French Revolution established a constitutional monarchy, increased popular participation, nationalized the Catholic Church, and abolished hereditary privileges (ex: Declaration of the Rights of Man and Citizen, Civil Constitution of the Clergy, Constitution of 1791, abolition of provinces and division of France into departments)
4. After the execution of Louis XVI, the radical Jacobin Republic led by Robespierre responded to opposition at home and war abroad by instituting the Reign of Terror, fixing prices and wages, and pursuing a policy of de-Christianization (ex: Georges Danton, Jean-Paul Marat, Committee of Public Safety).
5. Revolutionary armies, raised by mass conscription, sought to bring the changes initiated in France to the rest of Europe.
6. Women enthusiastically participated in the early phases of the revolution; however, while there were brief improvements in the legal status of women, citizenship in the republic was soon restricted to men.
7. Revolutionary ideas inspired a slave revolt led by Toussaint L'Ouverture in the French colony of Saint Domingue, which became the independent nation of Haiti in 1804.
8. While many were inspired by the revolution's emphasis on equality and human rights, others condemned its violence and disregard for traditional authority.
9. As first consul and emperor, Napoleon undertook a number of enduring domestic reforms while often curtailing some rights and manipulating popular impulses behind a façade of representative institutions. (ex of reforms: careers open to talent, educational system, centralized bureaucracy, civil code, Concordat of 1801) (ex of repression: secret police, censorship, limitation of women's rights)
10. Napoleon's new military tactics allowed him to exert direct or indirect control over much of the European continent, spreading the ideals of the French Revolution across Europe.
11. Napoleon's expanding empire created nationalist responses throughout Europe.
12. After the defeat of Napoleon by a coalition of European powers, the Congress of Vienna (1814-15) attempted to restore the balance of power in Europe and contain the danger of revolutionary or nationalistic upheavals in the future.
13. The Agricultural Revolution produced more food using fewer workers; as a result, people migrated from rural areas to the cities in search of work.
14. The growth of cities eroded traditional communal values, and city governments strained to provide protection and a healthy environment.
15. The concentration of the poor in cities led to a greater awareness of poverty, crime, and prostitution as social problems, and prompted increased efforts to police marginal groups.
16. Britain's ready supplies of coal, iron ore, and other essential raw materials promoted industrial growth.
17. Economic institutions and human capital such as engineers, inventors, and capitalists helped Britain lead the process of industrialization, largely through private initiative. (ex: Crystal Palace at the Great Exhibition of 1851, banks, government financial awards to inventors)
18. Britain's parliamentary government promoted commercial and industrial interests were represented in Parliament.

19. France moved toward industrialization at a more gradual pace than Great Britain, with government support and with less dislocation of traditional methods of production. (ex: canals, railroads, trade agreements)
20. Industrialization in Prussia allowed that state to become the leader of a unified Germany, which subsequently underwent rapid industrialization under government sponsorship. (ex: Zollverein, investment in transportation network, adoption of improved methods of manufacturing, Friedrich List's National System)
21. A combination of factors including geography, lack of resources, the dominance of traditional landed elites, the persistence of serfdom in some areas, and inadequate government sponsorship accounted for eastern and southern Europe's lag in industrial development.
22. Liberals emphasized popular sovereignty, individual rights, and enlightened self-interest but debated the extent to which all groups in society should actively participate in its governance. (ex: Jeremy Bentham, Anti-Corn Law League, John Stuart Mill)
23. Radicals in Britain and republicans on the continent demanded universal male suffrage and full citizenship without regard to wealth and property ownership; some argued that such rights should be extended to women. (ex: Chartists, Flora Tristan)
24. Conservatives developed a new ideology in support of traditional political and religious authorities, which was based on the idea that human nature was not perfectible. (ex: Edmund Burke, Joseph de Maistre, Klemens von Metternich)
25. Socialists called for a fair distribution of society's resources and wealth and evolved from utopian (ex: Henri de Saint-Simon, Charles Fourier, Robert Owen) to a Marxist scientific critique of capitalism (ex: Friedrich Engels, August Babel, Clara Zetkin, Rosa Luxemburg).
26. Anarchists asserted that all forms of governmental authority were unnecessary and should be overthrown and replaced with a society based on voluntary cooperation. (ex: Mikhail Bakunin, Georges Sorel)
27. Various private, nongovernmental reform movements sought to lift up the deserving poor and end serfdom and slavery. (ex: The Sunday School Movement, The Temperance Movement, British Abolitionist Movement, Josephine Butler)
28. In the first half of the 19th century, revolutionaries attempted to destroy the status quo. (ex: Decembrist Revolt in Russia, July Revolution in France)
29. The revolutions of 1848 challenged the conservative order and led to the breakdown of the Concert of Europe.

Standards

LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.1	Cite specific textual evidence to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, connecting insights gained from specific details to an understanding of the text as a whole.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.2	Determine the central ideas or information of a primary or secondary source; provide an accurate summary that makes clear the relationships among the key details and ideas.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.3	Evaluate various explanations for actions or events and determine which explanation best accords with textual evidence, acknowledging where the text leaves matters uncertain.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.4	Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in a text, including analyzing how an author uses and refines the meaning of a key term over the course of a text (e.g., how Madison defines faction in Federalist No. 10).
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.5	Analyze in detail how a complex primary source is structured, including how key sentences, paragraphs, and larger portions of the text contribute to the whole.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.6	Evaluate authors' differing points of view on the same historical event or issue by assessing the authors' claims, reasoning, and evidence.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.7	Integrate and evaluate multiple sources of information presented in diverse formats and media (e.g., visually, quantitatively, as well as in words) in order to address a question or solve a problem.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.8	Evaluate an author's premises, claims, and evidence by corroborating or challenging them with other information.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.9	Integrate information from diverse sources, both primary and secondary, into a coherent understanding of an idea or event, noting discrepancies among sources.
LA.11-12.CCSS.ELA-Literacy.RH.11-12.10	By the end of grade 12, read and comprehend history/social studies texts in the grades 11-CCR text complexity band independently and proficiently.
