Course Overview

The fourth grade social studies curriculum has two primary foci: New Jersey and regions of the United States. The first three quarters of the school year are dedicated to gaining a full knowledge of New Jersey from various perspectives including its history, geography, government, economy, and peoples. Students will understand the important role New Jersey has played in important historical events that shaped American history including the American Revolution, industrialization, and the Civil War. The last quarter of the year will be spent exploring the rest of the United States through the lens of its varying regions. While students will have the opportunity to look at the unique features that each of the Unites States' regions offers, an emphasis will be placed on comparing and contrasting among the regions of the United States.
