Activities to Differentiate Instruction

Differentiation for special education:

- o General modifications may include:
 - o Modifications & accommodations as listed in the student's IEP
 - Assign a peer to help keep student on task
 - Modified or reduced assignments
 - o Reduce length of assignment for different mode of delivery
 - o Increase one-to-one time
 - o Working contract between you and student at risk
 - o Prioritize tasks
 - o Think in concrete terms and provide hands-on-tasks
 - o Position student near helping peer or have quick access to teacher
 - o Anticipate where needs will be
 - o Break tests down in smaller increments
- o Content specific modifications may include:
- Larger balls will be used for the less-experienced players to increase their success and ease of striking the ball with the hockey stick.
- Students having difficulty will be encouraged to move as close as possible to the target or goal before shooting.
- o Students having difficulty will be provided with one-on-one instruction during practice and game play.

Differentiation for ELL's:

- General modifications may include:
 - o Integrate activities into thematic units
 - o tap the student's prior knowledge and experience, which may be different from other students in the class
 - o teach learning strategies and scaffold complex texts
 - o organize students into a variety of learning groups
 - o Collaboration with ELL Teacher
- Content specific vocabulary important for ELL students to understand include: passing, dribbling, shooting, stick, puck, goal

Differentiation to extend learning for gifted students may include:

Students having difficulty will be advised to focus on either offense or defense during game play, while students who excel will be advised to play both offense and defense.

Integrated/Cross-Disciplinary Instruction

• Mathematics connection: Students count the number of goals scored in a particular target, the number

- of passes a team makes before shooting, and/or the number of balls stolen from an opponent.
- Language Arts connection: When they have the puck during practice sessions, students will name an adjective to describe the game of hockey.
