

Unit 5: Book-Length Nonfiction

Content Area: English Language Arts
Course(s): English Language Arts
Time Period: Full Year
Length: Ongoing
Status: Published

Unit Overview

Students will read and discuss works of book-length nonfiction. Activities revolve around daily class reading. Students typically pair up in order to take detailed literary notes. Students have daily opportunities to share insights, questions, and observations with the class. Teachers may group students in Literature Circles in order to investigate concepts in greater depth. Additionally, teachers may make vocabulary lists a collaborative effort and apply the Writing Workshop approach to essays connected with this unit. The social interaction of these activities ensures a wide field of viewpoints and ideas; students demonstrate their learning in collaboration with each other, but they must also do so on an individual basis as they apply vocabulary words, compose articulate and analytic essays, and identify literary elements at work in the text.

How can real-life people in a nonfiction work be similar in their transformations to literary characters?

Why do some works of nonfiction carry more informational authority than others?

Application of Knowledge and Skills...

Students will know that...

- as individuals, we can grow as we engage with a text and analyze it.
- individuals, events, and concepts develop and interact throughout a nonfiction text.
- information in a work of extended nonfiction supports a central idea.
- the social act of literary discussion enhances not only the participants' learning and growth with respect to one book but also each individual's understanding of additional literature that they read on their own.

- works of nonfiction vary in their credibility and authority.

Students will be able to...

- analyze a text and synthesize concepts in spoken and written response to critical questions.
- analyze and explain the conceptual structure of a work of nonfiction with respect to its central ideas and its author's likely intent.
- apply insights revealed in group discussions to their own analysis of literature and express those insights verbally and in writing.
- assess the validity of information and the persuasiveness of arguments presented in a work of nonfiction.
- trace and evaluate the development of events and arguments in a work of nonfiction.

Assessments

Reading Exploration Sheets

Formative: Other written assessments

After daily class reading, students work together to compose notes on each chapter. These notes include a short summary, questions, comments, literary devices, and challenging vocabulary. The teacher periodically assesses the thoughtfulness and thoroughness of these notes.

Literature Circles

Formative: Other oral assessments

Roughly once a week, students get into their Literature Circles in order to discuss questions, insights, and literary elements. Students use their Reading Exploration Sheets to keep track of what they wish to contribute, but they must take care that their discussion is not a mere recitation of what is on their sheets. The discussion must be dynamic and energetic.

At times, students consult each other regarding strategies for writing essays connected with the reading. This is acceptable so long as the discussion does not become little more than a Writing Workshop conference.

Some teachers may desire more structure for Literature Circles in their classes. If so, they can assign the following roles to each student: master of ceremonies, literary term wizard, vocabulary czar, summarizer, and passage picker.

Vocabulary Assessments

Summative: Written Test

Students collaborate with the teacher on vocabulary lists at various stages in the unit. The teacher then publishes an official list, and students must take tests requiring them to put words into sentences that show each word's correct meaning and use.

Comprehension Quizzes
Summative: Written Test

For some chapters, students will read individually and answer questions that demonstrate comprehension of main idea, literary devices, vocabulary, and making inferences.

Essay Responses to Open-Ended Questions
Formative: Extended Essay

Students must respond to open-ended questions with thoughtful, thorough, elaborate essays that demonstrate basic comprehension, critical thinking, advanced writing skills, and adherence to formal writing guidelines.

Literary Term Test
Summative: Written Test

After reading for the text has concluded, students must identify literary terms whose examples from the story are provided.
