Course Overview

In the third grade Spanish talented curriculum, students will begin to learn how to formulate and respond to questions in Spanish. Asking and responding to questions is one of the most important parts of communication. It is essential to know this when learning a language. This unit focuses on two types of interrogatives "cómo" (how/what) and "cuántos/cuántas" (how many). Students will learn vocabulary and grammar needed to create and respond to questions using these interrogatives. The grammar in this unit will help students gain a better understanding of English grammar because it reviews the different parts of speech. This unit will allow students to exchange information with their peers using the target language.
