Unit Overview

This unit focuses on traditional West African music and culture. Students will learn various pieces of music from this region of the world and learn the cultural significance of the music on the West African culture, and on music as a whole. Students will learn songs in English and languages from this region (Ewe, Akan, Ga, etc.), traditional dances, and how to play the musical accompaniment. They will use traditional instruments made in Togo including various drums, rattles, bells, and flutes. In fourth grade, students will learn variations on rhythms they have previously learned, as well as use their knowledge of WA music to create their own arrangements of pieces, songs, and dances. They will simultaneously sing and play- a very difficult task for a Western musician to accomplish.
