

Unit 3: Las vacaciones

Content Area: World Languages
Course(s): Spanish
Time Period: Week 9
Length: 6 Weeks
Status: Published

Unit Overview

In this unit students will focus on vacation and travel. They will be able to explore various concepts of travel such as planning a trip, reserving a hotel room and using means of transportation to get around the country. Students will be able to make comparisons of how they and others feel. A review will also be provided of the seasons and the weather and their importance when traveling to Spanish-speaking countries. Students will explore further the verbs ser and estar to understand their different uses and meanings.

Essential Questions

- How do people discuss and plan a vacation?
- How do people talk about how they feel?
- What are some popular vacation destinations in the Spanish-speaking world and why?
- What recreational activities are popular in different seasons in Spanish-speaking countries?

Application of Knowledge and Skills...

Activities

- In small groups, students will be given a situation and will be required to use the vocabulary that they have learned. For instance, Tenemos una reservacion: students may be asked to make a reservation from Newark or JFK airport to Madrid at 9:00 a.m. They need to determine the vocabulary needed to complete a task such as this one. Each small group will have different travel arrangements that need to be made in the target language.
- Students will listen to audio passages and respond to questions, one of which may be to listen to a travel agent. One question may include what time is the flight?
- Utilizing the white boards, students will write the vocabulary words that they hear.
- Students will plan a trip and create a travel brochure promoting their place of interest. For instance, students may create a brochure from a list of choices which may include cities, countries or regions.
- In small groups, students will be provided with Flashcards. Based on what the students see on the flashcards, students will answer the question ¿Cómo estás?
- Split the class into two evenly-numbered groups. Hand out cards at random to the members of each group. One type of card should contain a verb or verb phrase and the other a related noun. Have the people within the groups find their partner.
- Give students a card with a country (randomly), have them research the country and then present it to the class.
- Have students work in partners to read the Fotonovela ¡Vamos a la playa! and rewrite the ending using a new location.
- Students will work in groups of 2 or 3 to create their own skit basing it on the Fotonovela, students will then act out the skit for the class.
- Students will write a list of four questions using different conjugations of estar to ask a partner. The partner will be asked to respond negatively and use the opposite adjective in an affirmative statement.
- Students will bring in pictures from a vacation to share with the class. Using the present progressive and the target language they will discuss what's taking place in the picture.
- Students will write a postcard to a friend of family member about a vacation in Puerto Rico, incorporating as many uses of the verbs ser and estar as possible.

Activities to Differentiate Instruction

- Allow students the use of the vocabulary list while completing the white board activity.
- Have native speakers tell the class about what the typical weather is like in their country of origin.
- Allow some students to use a written copy of the skit when presenting.
- Choice of working alone or in partners.
- Provide skeleton notes for presentations.
- Provide opportunities for students to work together in teacher designed groups.
- Provide tiered activities and homework.
- Assign Spanish "experts" to assist with each lesson.
