Course Overview

In the fourth grade talented physical education class, students will learn ways to improve their personal fitness and sports skills. They will begin the year by assessing their personal fitness accuity, then use various ways of testing and analyzing their performance including through pedometers, checking heart rate, and looking for physiological signs of exercise. From this base measurement, they will set fitness goals, plan activities to reach those goals, and monitor their progress. In the second half of the year, students will video record themselves performing various sports skills, then analyze the footage and research ways to improve their own personal performance.
