Students identify various genres of fiction and nonfiction, comparing and contrasting the characteristics from category to others. Their commentary takes the form of large-group discussions, Literature Circles, and essay-length responses to open-ended questions.

Assessments

Big Question Discussion

Diagnostic: Other oral assessments

Students are introduced to the Big Question and engage in a discussion to assess ideas they already have.

Critical Thinking Questions

Formative: Instructional/Assessment Focus

Students answer comprehension questions about each story. While questions assess knowledge of the text, they are also centered around a reading skill such as making predictions or fact and opinion.

Vocabulary Warm Ups

Diagnostic: Instructional/Assessment Focus

Students complete vocabulary warm-ups to determine prior knowledge of both academic and story-specific vocabulary.

Selection Tests

Summative: Written Test

Students demonstrate their comprehension of passages read and discussed in class. Open-ended questions are included, as well as vocabulary.

Essay Response to Open Ended Questions

Formative: Extended Essay

Students respond to open-ended questions with thoughtful, thorough, elaborate essays that demonstrate basic comprehension, critical thinking, advanced writing skills, and adherenced to formal writing guidelines.

Unit Project

Summative: Personal Project

Students complete a project that embodies all of the skills learned over the course of the unit. Students present their projects to the class.

Literature Circle

Formative: Other oral assessments

Students work in their Literature Circles to discuss questions, insights, and literary elements related to the passages they have read. Students use their Reading Exploration Sheets to keep track of what they wish to contribute, but they must take care that their discussion is not a mere recitation of what is on their sheets. The discussion must be dynamic and energetic. Particularly important in this unit is a focus on the distinguishing characteristics of multiple genres. Students compare and contrast the works they have read for this unit, classifying them into various genres and types. Additionally, students consult the contents of their anthology and the book-length selection list. They speculate on the genres of all titles, while making predictions about the nature of passages they expect to read.

At times, students consult each other regarding strategies for writing essays connected with the reading. This is acceptable so long as the discussion does not become little more than a Writing Workshop conference.

Some teachers may desire more structure for Literature Circles in their classes. If so, they can assign the following roles to each student: master of ceremonies, literary term wizard, vocabulary czar, summarizer, and passage picker.
