- Snow Formative: Other visual assessments Students will add snow to the "House" collage created previously. 1.3.2.D.4
- Trees Formative: Other visual assessments Students will draw deciduous trees and evergreen trees.

Activities

---

- Show the students pictures of landscapes; have them identify the horizon line
- Show students landscape paintings and ask them to identify what they see using art words such as different shapes and lines
- Model for students a drawing of a deciduous tree made by first drawing a Y
- Model for students a drawing of an evergreen tree made by first drawing a Z
- Look at a picture of a house; identify the uses of different shapes present in the house
- Demonstrate for students how to add tempera paint snow to a piece of art
- Show the students paintings of people interacting; ask the students to explain how to determine the relationship between the people

Activities to Differentiate Instruction

- Add birds and clouds to the "Trees" picture
- Add additional items, such as trees to the "House" collage
- Experiment in adding snow to the "House" collage and demonstrate how the snow falls/collects on different objects in different ways
- Students work at their own pace/teacher-reduced project expectations
- Review and repeat instructions
- Use proximity control
- Incorporate frequent modeling and prompting
- Use visuals, when possible, to accompany instructions
- Preferential seating

Integrated/Cross-Disciplinary Instruction

Students learn in their science classes the different uses of deciduous and evergreen trees and where each type of tree is most common.
