Activities

- Show the students cave art from Lascaux, France
- Use a map and show the students where Lascaux, France is located in relation to Green Brook, NJ
- Show the students reproductions of artifacts from ancient Egypt
- Use a map and show the students where Egypt is located in relation to Green Brook, NJ
- Show the students pictures of Egyptian mummies and sarcophagi
- Use a map and show the students where Greece is located in relation to Green Brook, NJ
- Show the students reproductions of Grecian pottery
- Show the students reproductions of Grecian pottery with images of the ancient Olympics
- Show the students images of ancient tile mosaics; discuss the images present in the mosaics

Activities to Differentiate Instruction

- After students have created their own cave art, ask them to try to recreate a selected image from the Lascaux cave art
- While students are decorating the background of their Egyptian portraits, they will add background images in the following order: pyramids, Nile River, cats
- Students may use multiple colors to create an alternating pattern when designing their tile mosaic
- Students work at their own pace/teacher-reduced project expectations
- Review and repeat instructions
- Use proximity control
- Incorporate frequent modeling and prompting
- Use visuals, when possible, to accompany instructions
- Preferential seating

Integrated/Cross-Disciplinary Instruction

Students learn the story of the famous boy pharaoh, King Tutankhamun. This story may be read to the students in either their language arts or social studies classes. When creating an Egyptian portrait, the students may include real details in the portrait from the sarcophagus of King Tutankhamun.
