Unit Overview

In Unit 5, students gain a better understanding of, and appreciation for, poetry by exploring many different themes, concepts, and ideas across a variety of poems. Students will recognize rhythm scheme and form as they read poetry and apply that knowledge as they create original works. Young poets will also analyze the emotion and message behind various poems. Students will choose a poem to memorize that poem for a presentation to the class. This may be done in pairs to help decrease anxiety levels. At the end of this unit, writers will have the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to create original works of poetry and present it to the class in one of a variety of presentation styles. A booklet of at least 5 poems including: a cover page; an About the Author page, a Table of Contents; the pages of poems with illustrations ; and a final reflection page about poetry will be polished and added to the portfolio.

Suggested Activities & Best Practices

Of the various forms of poetry, it is suggested that instructors include the following forms for students to study and write:

- Found Poem (Found poems take existing texts and refashion them, reorder them, and present them as poems. The literary equivalent of a collage, found
 - poetry is often made from newspaper articles, street signs, graffiti, speeches, letters, or even other poems.)
 - A sample poetry project for this unit is researching black out poetry via You Tube and other INTERNET sources. Allow students to pick a page from a school based textbook (preferably ELA but teacher should be open to alternate ideas) and create a black out poetry. Teacher will also have to photocopy the pages. Another idea is to copy several pages and allow students to pick one to showcase how one page can be turned into an array of different poems.

- Couplets
- Sonnet
- Free Verse
- Limerick
- Haiku
- Music Lyrics
- End of unit project - black out poetry. There are several examples of this on line if teacher needs assistance.

Assessment Evidence - Checking for Understanding (CFU)

By identifying the Evidence of Student Learning with Checking for Understanding (CFU) techniques used during the lesson and/or for Closure (Madeline Hunter), please list the variety of means used to assess students' learning (e.g. quizzes, tests, academic prompts, observations, homework, journals).

- Exit ticket example - List one thing you learned today and one thing you want the teacher to review tomorrow (formative assessment)
- KWL chart used for introduction to poetry unit (formative assessment)
- Edit and re-create an classic piece of poetry to include modern themes (summative assessment)
- Create an original poem (summative assessment)
- Find a selection from a favorite novel to create a black-out poem (alternative assessment)

Technology Infusion

A specific example of technology infusion would be using Google Classroom to write their rough draft for their black out poetry. If students are able to create their poem virtually, they can also create their final draft via Google Classroom as well.

Students can also be responsible for their own prompt. Another example occurs when students are researching various poems and black out poems via the Internet for inspiration.

English Language Learning (ELL)

Please identify the English Language Learning adaptations that will be employed in the unit, using the ones identified below.

The writing process is used heavily within this course. Students that are struggling should be checked for understanding about what areas of the process they are struggling with using sample poems, providing students with a page for black out poem instead of having students pick their own, BME outlines, graphic organizers and assessing their prior skills.

- teaching key aspects of a topic. Eliminate nonessential information
- using videos, illustrations, pictures, and drawings to explain or clarify
- allowing products (projects, timelines, demonstrations, models, drawings, dioramas, poster boards, charts, graphs, slide shows, videos, etc.) to demonstrate student's learning;
- allowing students to correct errors (looking for understanding)
- allowing the use of note cards or open-book during testing
- decreasing the amount of work presented or required
- having peers take notes or providing a copy of the teacher's notes
- modifying tests to reflect selected objectives
- providing study guides
- reducing or omitting lengthy outside reading assignments
- reducing the number of answer choices on a multiple choice test
- tutoring by peers

- using computer word processing spell check and grammar check features

At Risk

Please identify Intervention Strategies that will be employed in the unit, using the ones identified below.

Sample Lesson

Unit Name: Poetry

NJSLS: See attached

Statement of Objective: SWBAT discuss and defend the notion of progress and the author's attitude towards it; SWDAT write an exploratory paragraph about personal objects to be later crafted into poem

Anticipatory Set/Do Now:

- Using T-chart, make two lists. On one side, list objects that you have discarded, but wish you hadn't. On the other side, list objects you still own, but should have discarded.

Learning Activity:

- Share lists with small group. Read aloud, Junkyards. Ask students to determine the theme of the poem, and explain what the author's attitude is. Use lines from the poem to support responses.

Junkyards

by Julian Lee Rayford

You take any junkyard and you will see it filled with symbols of progress
remarkable things discarded

What civilization when ahead on all its onward-impelling implements are given over to the junkyards
to rust

The supreme implement, the wheel is conspicuous in the junkyards

The axles and the levers
the cogs and the flywheels
all the parts of dynamos
all the parts of motors
fall the parts of rusting.

Themes, Issues, Concepts:

- What is "progress"?
- recycling
- life cycles
- archeology of junk

Literary Terms

- structure
- lament

Write about the following

Try writing about something you have either kept that you should have discarded or something you discarded you wish you had kept? Describe the object. What was your attachment to it? How did you finally come to make your decision about it?
