Unit Overview

In this unit, students will study the labor market and corporations. Students will be able to connect America's labor past with America's labor present.

Enduring Understanding

Students will understand that:

- Sole proprietorships are the most common form of business in the United States. The owner has sole control over his business.
- Partnerships let individuals pool their resources and share responsibility in the forming and running of a business.
- Corporations are complex organizations that can be owned by a few or a great many individuals. Mergers combine corporations to form even larger businesses. Multinationals are corporations that operate in different countries.
- America is becoming more of a service economy. Other trends include decreasing wages and the rising costs of employee benefits.
- In a competitive labor market, laws of supply and demand determine wages based on how much a worker produces. Historically, workplace conditions, discrimination and unions have affected wages.
- Labor unions began in the mid 1800's. In the 1900's unions used strikes to gain better wages and working conditions. Union influence has been curbed in recent years due to certain laws. Unions and management engage in collective bargaining.

Essential Questions

- What is a sole proprietorship?
- What is a partnership?

Interdisciplinary Connections

English Language Arts

- Language skills
- Analytical writing
- Making inferences from complex texts
- Analytical writing
- View films, dramas, artwork, and other mediums to compare and contrast to elements of a text.
- Examine a variety of primary and secondary sources and investigate point of view

Mathematics

- Examine data from graphs, maps and charts and make inferences on their impacts
- Reason abstractly and quantitatively

LA.RH.9-10.1

Accurately cite strong and thorough textual evidence, to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, attending to such features as the date and origin of the information.

MA.K-12.2

Reason abstractly and quantitatively.

Mathematically proficient students make sense of quantities and their relationships in problem situations. They bring two complementary abilities to bear on problems involving quantitative relationships: the ability to decontextualize—to abstract a given situation and represent it symbolically and manipulate the representing symbols as if they have a life of their own, without necessarily attending to their referents—and the ability to contextualize, to pause as needed during the manipulation process in order to probe into the referents for the symbols involved. Quantitative reasoning entails habits of creating a coherent representation of the problem at hand; considering the units involved; attending to the meaning of quantities, not just how to compute them; and knowing and flexibly using different properties of operations and objects.

MA.S-ID.A.2

Use statistics appropriate to the shape of the data distribution to compare center (median, mean) and spread (interquartile range, standard deviation) of two or more different data sets.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.A

Introduce a topic and organize ideas, concepts, and information to make important connections and distinctions; include formatting (e.g., headings), graphics (e.g., figures, tables), and multimedia when useful to aiding comprehension.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.B

Develop the topic with well-chosen, relevant, and sufficient facts, extended definitions, concrete details, quotations, or other information and examples appropriate to the audience's knowledge of the topic.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.C

Use varied transitions and sentence structures to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships among ideas and concepts.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.D

Use precise language and domain-specific vocabulary to manage the complexity of the topic and convey a style appropriate to the discipline and context as well as to the expertise of likely readers.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.E

Establish and maintain a style and tone appropriate to the audience and purpose (e.g., formal and objective for academic writing) while attending to the norms and conventions of the discipline in which they are writing.

LA.WHST.9-10.2.F

Provide a concluding paragraph or section that supports the argument presented.
