Unit Overview

In this unit, students will improve their skills in reading, writing, research, language, and speaking and listening. Students will read and evaluate explanatory texts. They will also read fiction, drama, a news article, a biography, and a memoir to better understand the ways writers express ideas. Throughout this unit, students will be engaged in a Writer's Workshop framework by focusing on explanatory text. Students will learn the elements of writing an explanatory essay. They will write their own explanatory essay. Students will also conduct research to clarify and explore ideas. Students will develop a deeper understanding of choosing language that expresses ideas precisely and concisely. Students will work together to build on one another's ideas, develop consensus, and communicate with one another. They will also learn to incorporate audio, visuals, and text in presentations. Honors level course will adjust time lines and provide students with additional opportunities to complete projects to explore concepts.

Enduring Understanding

- In most stories, the plot centers on a conflict or struggle between opposing forces.
- We will learn the importance of empathy and connection with other living things. There is a value of exploration and finding things out for oneself.
- There are two types of conflict. External conflict is a struggle between a character and an outside force such as another character or nature. Internal conflict is a struggle within a character as he or she wrestles with opposing feelings, beliefs, needs, or desires.
- Argument includes the claim that a writer or speaker presents, as well as supporting reasons and evidence. To evaluate a writer's argument, decide whether the claim is clearly presented and strongly supported by logical reasons and relevant evidence.

- Analyzing one of the author's choices regarding the following: patterns, such as repetition or parallelism, structure, such as cause-and-effect or problem/solution, techniques, such as description or dialogue, and ideas, such as the author's main idea or claim.
- There are many different types of evidence students can use to support their argument, including facts, statistics, anecdotes, quotations with authorities, and examples.
- Characteristics that make evidence credible are reliable sources, including government, educational, and professional organizations, degree to which experts have reviewed the evidence for accuracy and credibility of references and confirmation provided by the source of evidence.

Essential Questions

- What can cause a sudden change in someone's life?
- How does Scrooge's character transform over the course of the play?
- How does Ebenezer's "turning point" change him?
- What can cause a significant change in someone's life?
- How do you influence others using support?
- Does culture really influence one's identity?
- How do tribes impact the identity of our characters in A Long Walk to Water?
- How does climate affect the water crisis?
- How does the quality of and quantity of water affect society?
- How does scarcity of water affect a nation?
