Prepared by: Ms. Diana Kucko

Dr. Richard Tomko, Ph.D., M.J., Superintendent of Schools

Ms. LucyAnn Demikoff, Director of Curriculum and Instruction K-12

Ms. Nicole Shanklin, Director of Elementary Education

Board Approved: September 23, 2019; Revised 8/17/2020

Unit Overview

In this unit, we explore works of fiction, historical fiction, and informational texts for the argumentative essay/speech. Students will continue to review theme, character analysis, and plot development in order to connect the text to their lives. Students will develop their literary skills by continuing to cite textual evidence within their writing. Furthermore, they will examine various types of text structure in order to identify and explain characteristics of various literary genres.

In addition, students may read works of historical fiction and discuss how author's perspectives might produce accounts of historical events that differ from what we know happened. Students work collaboratively to reconcile different author's points of view and discuss why these differences occur.

This unit ends with an argumentative essay in response to the essential question. After completing this unit, students will transfer to real life how to generate argumentative topics, state, and support claims, develop counterarguments, and provide conclusions that support arguments.

Enduring Understanding

Enduring understandings are statements summarizing important ideas and core processes that are central to a discipline and have lasting value beyond the classroom. They synthesize what students should understand—not just know or do—as a result of studying a particular content area. Moreover, they articulate what students should “revisit” over the course of their lifetimes in relationship to the content area.

- Environment plays an important role in everyday lives.
- Ordinary people can do extraordinary things.
- All individuals can strive to make their community a better place.
- All individuals can make a difference and help make the world a better place.
- Everyday heroes in works of literature can face challenges and persevere.
- Historical and cultural fiction may contain factual events and people, but the main characters tend to be fictional.
- Author's point of view is critical in historical and cultural fiction.
- Great literature is intentionally crafted to explore enduring human themes transferable across time and place.
- We can learn about ourselves through the analysis of lyrics and media.
- The realization that actions have consequences
- Focus on point of view and perspective

Essential Questions

Essential Questions are questions that lies at the heart of a subject or a curriculum and one that promotes inquiry and the discovery of a subject.

Suggested Activities & Best Practices

The suggested activities listed below can be found within the My Perspective textbook on page 255 of the teacher's edition; however, one of the main focal points of this unit is the whole class novel, Nothing But The Truth by Avi.

Whole Class Learning:

- Nothing But the Truth by Avi
 - Reader's Theater to read the novel aloud and by assigning roles during class.
 - Researching various academic court cases that involve students vs. school districts.
 - Discussing, reviewing and analyzing various points of view and perspectives.
- Barrington Irving, Pilot and Educator, by National Geographic
- Anchor Texts: Opinion Pieces
 - Three Cheers for the Nany State, by Sarah Conly
 - Ban the Ban!, by Sidney Anna Stone

- Soda's the Problem but..., by Karin Klein

Suggested activity:

The Whole-Class reading of Nothing But the Truth by Avi discusses six themes: point of view, telling the truth, respect for authority, listening, personal and civil/ human rights, and patriotism. After reading, you will construct an argumentative essay that assigns responsibilities for the injustices that occurred in Nothing But the Truth. Use Pearson Realize's writing tool for essay writing and feedback or Google Docs shared with classmates and teacher.

Small Group Learning:

- Words DO Not Pay, by Chief Joseph
- from Follow the Rabbit- Proof Fence, by Doris Pilkington
- The Moth Presents: Aleeza Kazmi

Suggested activity: Perform a close read of the text using accessible leveled text for small, differentiated groups to best understand the complexity of "Words DO Not Pay". Complete text dependent questions and construct formal open-ended questions/ answers using the RACER rubric and format.

Challenge: Think of a recent event in their lives that they found interesting or exciting and write a few sentences about the event in a matter-of-fact way and then with descriptive lively words. (from Follow the Rabbit-Proof Fence). Analyze how the author's use of description reveals his or her point of view and creates a specific mood, or emotional atmosphere, in the excerpt. Note words or phrases from the text that support your analysis. Use the chart to capture your observations. Cite textual evidence to support your answers.

Independent Learning:

- from Through My Eyes, by Ruby Bridges
- The Unknown Citizen, by W. H. Auden
- Harriet Tubman Conductor of the Underground Railroad, by Ann Petr

Suggested activity: Skim, predict, and use KWL to help the understanding of reading nonfiction, or fiction text independently.

Sample Lesson

Unit Name: What Matters - Unit 2

NJSLS: LA RI 8.1, 8.4, 8.6, 8.8

Interdisciplinary Connection: Civic responsibility/ Social Studies/ technological literacy

Statement of Objective: In their heterogeneous groups, students will argue persuasively using evidence to build a case for or against Sponge Bob's guilt or innocence for the in-class trial. They will also organize evidence into a logical sequence to lead their audience to the desired conclusion and vocalize what a piece of evidence proves and how it helps them establish their argument. Success will be demonstrated when 100% of the students present their case using at least 4 pieces of evidence provided and explain their validity and write an argumentative essay that follows the required graphic organizer/ format.

Anticipatory Set/Do Now: Write down any facts you know about our law system – who are the major players involved, what it is intended to do, etc. (use for a KWL before we integrate thoughts for class continuation of the SpongeBob trial)

Learning Activity:

Review the SpongeBob case to the class - continue. Work in small, heterogeneous groups:

- Students to continue working on their arguments, to assign parts for the presentation, and to decide which group member will present the closing statement.
- Plan on about five to eight minutes for each group to present their arguments. Alternate between prosecution and defense teams. (start at the end of today's class period)
- When students are presenting, make sure they read each piece of evidence they are using rather than just reading off the list of numbers - helps to follow their reasoning better.
- After all groups have presented, open a class discussion by asking students what they thought the strongest arguments were.

Student Assessment/CFU's:

Observation - conference with students throughout

ABC Summaries: Each student in the class is assigned a different letter of the alphabet and they must select a word starting with that letter that is related to the case of SpongeBob. Write all on the board at the close of the period (stop 10 minutes before end of class to do this CFU)

Materials:

Graphic Organizer for Argumentative writing

The Trial of SpongeBob Squarepants - evidence sheet and worksheet - handouts

Differentiation:

Read directions aloud, written and verbal directions

Allow extra time in groups

Peer to peer assistance

Integration of Technology:

- Smart Board
- Sponge Bob Prezi
