Unit Overview

The "Beginner ELL" units, starting with Unit 1 are designed to provide students with opportunities to internalize, process and produce the target language encouraging the development of speaking, listening, reading and writing skills. The unit is designed to build on and expand the control of basic grammatical structures by interweaving vocabulary and functions into meaningful and authentic activities that emphasize all three modes of communication: interpretive, interpersonal and presentational. Cultural knowledge and understanding of the target culture is integrated into course content. Successful completion of each course satisfies one year of a world language requirement.

Enduring Understanding

Language proficiency in more than one language expands the appreciation of differences in cultural practices, products, and perspectives.

Cultural acquisition occurs simultaneously with language acquisition and not in an isolated manner.

Reading helps people understand the world around them.

Effective communication requires certain rules to be followed.

Effective communication in English facilitates the acquisition of academic language.

Essential Questions

How can I apply knowledge of parts of speech and conjunctions to improve communication?

How can I read for meaning and understanding while learning new cultural concepts and language?

How do I identify the correct form of grammar and syntax when speaking and writing?

What strategies are used for reading and how are they useful for reading?

Exit Skills

By the end of the unit, students will be able to:

Use selected vocabulary in various forms of communication

Use relevant grammar in various forms of communication.

Acquire basic vocabulary and Tier 1 words.

Suggested Activities & Best Practices

Student Centered Learning: Students should either have already selected groups or groups of their choosing and be ready to answer higher order thinking discussion questions related to the theme or topic of the piece of literature being discussed.

Use of Rubrics: After discussing an assignment, allow students to create what they believe to be a fair rubric for assessing the assignment. This allows the students to have a say in how they will be graded as well as accountability for the assignment.

Allowing students to choose their own projects: Having a variety of projects that the students can choose from helps address all learning types. This will allow the students to choose the project they feel they can be most successful in completing.

Brainstorming: This helps in the writing process because it will allow the student to know if they are grasping the topic.

Google Translate: Students should be allowed to utilize Google translate when unfamiliar with terms, expressions and unfamiliar vocabulary.

English Language Learning (ELL)

Modify the quantity of work so that it is aligned with the level of the student in the language acquisition process.

Have fluent peers work with less proficient students.

Have materials available in the learners L1 when possible.

- teaching key aspects of a topic. Eliminate nonessential information
- using videos, illustrations, pictures, and drawings to explain or clarify
- allowing products (projects, timelines, demonstrations, models, drawings, dioramas, poster boards, charts, graphs, slide shows, videos, etc.) to demonstrate student's learning;
- allowing students to correct errors (looking for understanding)
- allowing the use of note cards or open-book during testing
- decreasing the amount of work presented or required
- having peers take notes or providing a copy of the teacher's notes
- modifying tests to reflect selected objectives
- providing study guides
- reducing or omitting lengthy outside reading assignments
- reducing the number of answer choices on a multiple choice test
- tutoring by peers
- using computer word processing spell check and grammar check features
- using true/false, matching, or fill in the blank tests in lieu of essay tests

At Risk

Research visual materials with English subtitles to help assist with the understanding of material.

Allow students to use bilingual dictionaries to research unfamiliar terms.

Edit material to shorter more meaningful passages.

Allow students to modify materials based on areas of interest.

- allowing students to correct errors (looking for understanding)
- teaching key aspects of a topic. Eliminate nonessential information
- allowing products (projects, timelines, demonstrations, models, drawings, dioramas, poster boards, charts, graphs, slide shows, videos, etc.) to demonstrate student's learning
- allowing students to select from given choices
- allowing the use of note cards or open-book during testing
- collaborating (general education teacher and specialist) to modify vocabulary, omit or modify items to reflect objectives for the student, eliminate sections of the test, and determine how the grade will be determined prior to giving the test.

- decreasing the amount of work presented or required
- having peers take notes or providing a copy of the teacher's notes

Unit Name: Unit 1

NJSLS:

Interdisciplinary Connection: Social Studies

Statement of Objective: SWDA To learn about parts of speech and conjunctions, there function and usage.

Anticipatory Set/Do Now: Introduce: Connect Ideas in Sentences: Guide Practice: Display the presentation. Ask students to work in pairs to connect the ideas in each row with conjunctions than one conjunction can be used in some rows, and some conjunctions may not be used at all. Each pair can create four sentences, three from the ideas in the table and one of their own choice from personal experiences student in the pair should write the sentences in their Class Notes and also be prepared to share their sentences orally. Call on pairs first to share one of their complete sentences and then to call on another student to tell whet

Learning Activity: Introduce: Connect Ideas in Sentences Display the table. Call on students to read the sentences and name the conjunction in each. Ask them to name the relationship between the ideas that the conjunctions connect: ● and shows that both girls are snacking ● but and yet contrast what the girls are eating ● so shows that the first idea is the cause or reason and the second idea is the effect or result

Materials: Smartboard, Ilit program, writing journals
