Unit Overview

Unit five focuses on painting.

- Discuss a paintbrush and the different parts of it. The hair is called the bristles, the metal part is called the ferrule, and the handle is the long wooden or colorful part. The number on the side of the handle refers to the size of the brush.
- Discuss how to select the appropriate brush for the art you are creating. Large brush for a large area, small brush for a small area.
- Discuss proper handling of a paintbrush. You will have more control if you hold it closer to the ferrule.
- Discuss how much paint to apply to the brush when working. You do not need a lot of paint on the brush when working in small areas. More paint is necessary when working in larger areas.
- Discuss how to wash the brush when changing colors. Demonstrate how to wash without spilling the water, wipe the bristles on the edge, then use a paper towel to dry. Stress the importance of not tapping the brush on the edge of the cup, or aggressively washing your brush in the water.
- Discuss the drying rack and show the students where it is located in the classroom. Demonstrate how to place artwork on the rack beginning from the bottom of the rack and moving up. Allow students to practice placing their paintings on the rack.
- Discuss proper clean-up procedures. Demonstrate how to wash brushes properly while washing hands.
- Explore the medium by having students create a painting using the techniques learned.
- Reference artists' work that uses paint. ie: Leonardo Da Vinci, Salvador Dali, etc.

Enduring Understandings

- Paintbrushes, paint and other media used for painting should be used in a safe and responsible manner.
- Understanding the anatomy of a brush helps me to select the appropriate brush for my endeavor.
- Paintbrush cleaning helps me to keep my brushes longer and care for my materials.

Essential Questions

- Is paint better than other mediums for creating art?

- What are the important ideas to remember about brushes and how to use them?
- Does faster mean better?
- How do artists use paint to express their ideas?

Exit Skills

By the end of Unit 5:

- All students will demonstrate an understanding of painting by:
 - Selecting an appropriate paintbrush for their project, and handling it correctly.
 - Being able to explain the anatomy of a paintbrush.
 - Demonstrating proper cleaning of their brush, both during and after painting.
 - Depicting an image on their paper (board, canvas, etc.) according to the assignment given.
 - Placing their artwork in the correct area of the room for drying.
