Unit Overview

During Unit 2, students will explore different themes and scenarios that will guide them in formulating their own thoughtful responses to this unit's big idea: "How do animals play a part in the world around us?" Students will discuss and learn about animal adaptations and climates as well. Each week students will produce a project related to the Essential Question. They will then develop one of these projects more fully for the Unit Research Project. Through their research, students will focus their attention on comparing information across sources and recalling, paraphrasing, and presenting information they have found. As students read and reread each week for close reading of text, they take notes, cite text evidence to support their ideas and opinions, and write short analytical responses. After reading, students build writing fluency, analyze model responses, craft longer responses incorporating text evidence, and focus on writing traits.

Enduring Understandings

Students will understand that...

- animals survive in nature by adapting to different climates in their habitats.
- animal stories, or made-up tales, that teach us lessons about how we should behave.
- explain that a habitat is the place where a plant or an animal lives. Animal habitats are in the outdoor world called nature.
- baby animals are both like and unlike their parents.
- when you express something, you show how you feel or what you think.

Essential Questions

- How do animals survive?
- What can animals in stories teach us?
- What are different animal habitats?
- How are offsprings like their parents?
- What do we love about animals?
- How do animals play a part in the world around us?

Exit Skills

By the end of Unit 2: Animal Discoveries, students will be able to...

- use reading strategies to a comprehend text.
- use reading strategies to ask questions about text.
- identify characteristics of different types of genres.
- read and write grade level specific high-frequency words.
- apply grade level phonics skills.
- utilize writing traits to create grade appropriate writing pieces.

Differentiation

- Content: Content will be differentiated through use of multilevel readers for Basic Skills students, Special Education students, Talented and Gifted students, as well as ELL students. The readers are all focused upon the same content, however the lexiles differ depending upon the abilities of the student.
- Process: The process will be differentiated through supplying three tiers of questioning for basic, intermediate, and advanced learners. Additionally, students will be supplied with sentence stems and differentiated student workbooks to foster student success of the established goals.
- Product: The product will be differentiated because student work will be based upon their reading levels and lexiles. Students will be given choice for projects that appeal to their various learning styles to promote confidence and success amongst the students.
- During Readers Workshop, teachers will incorporate differentiation through guided reading, the use of leveled readers and strategy groups. Students also have the choice of selecting their own books to read independently. This can be a controlled choice of books so that they are reading on their independent reading level.
- Through Writers Workshop, teachers will conference with students in order to individualize instruction. This can be done through one-on-one conferencing or with small conference groups. During this time, students can choose their own writing topic within the unit's genre.
