Unit Overview

Within Unit One, students will explore how learning about new things helps us to grow and find out about the world around us. This unit will focus on stories and storytelling and what we can learn from stories and their characters. It will also focus on traditions and how our traditions can teach us about different cultures. Additionally, the unit will be focusing on how people from different cultures contribute to a community and how we can learn from people from another culture. Finally, the unit will focus on how problem solving can lead to new ideas and new products and talk about people who came up with new inventions when investigating and trying to solve a problem.

Enduring Understandings

Students will understand that...

- stories will teach students lessons, learn new skills, illustrate great writing, and inspire them to learn about other people.
- traditions are passed down from generation to generation, and help to teach important family customs intertwined with culture.
- people from different cultures contribute to a community by adding interesting customs and beliefs for others to share.
- every new invention begins with a problem and a new idea.
- learning can help us know more about life and our surroundings as we continue to grow and develop. Asking questions and being inquisitive helps to learn and answers questions that we develop independently.

Essential Questions

- What can stories teach you?
- What can traditions teach you about cultures?
- How do people from different cultures contribute to a community?
- How can problem solving lead to new ideas?
- How can learning help us grow?

Differentiation

- Content: Content will be differentiated through use of multilevel readers for Basic Skills students, Special Education students, Talented and Gifted students, as well as ELL students. The readers are all focused upon the same content, however the lexiles differ depending upon the abilities of the student.
- Process: The process will be differentiated through supplying three tiers of questioning for basic, intermediate, and advanced learners. Additionally, students will be supplied with sentence stems and differentiated student workbooks to foster student success of the established goals.

Unit Name: (Taken from Unit 3) One of a Kind

NJSLS: See below

Interdisciplinary Connection: Social Studies

Statement of Objective: Students will identify and explain the problem and solution of a story.

Anticipatory Set/Do Now: "Boys and girls, it's time to THINK NOW! As you join me on the carpet, think about yesterday's skill, _____, and how you applied it to your independent reading book."

Learning Activity:

- Teacher will give a connection to what was taught prior, and give students a brief description of today's strategy and why it's important.
- Teacher will then model the strategy. The teacher will display page 194 in the Literature Anthology of the story Martina the Beautiful Cockroach.
- As you read, stop at page 201. Begin to think aloud: "Hmmm...What are some of the steps that led to a solution? We know Martina first meets Dan Gallo, the rooster, who presents himself as a suitor. He is very fancy and has splendid shoes. He likes to look at his reflection. He cared more about himself and how he looked rather than Martina. These are some of the steps that will lead the character to the solution."
- Teacher will model the strategy again using pages 183 in your Readers Writers Workshop book and begin reading Inchworm's Tale. Teacher will stop once Anant and Anika are stuck at the top. Teacher will ask the students if they can find the steps that will lead to solving the problem on page 184 by turning and talking to a partner. As the students are talking, listen in on some of their conversations by walking around. After two minutes, select 1-2 students to share their responses.

- The teacher will then link the minilesson to the independent reading. The teacher again will identify today's strategy and tell the students: "When you go off to read today, you're going to reread parts of a story that you do not understand. This will help you become better readers. Now that you know this is something that good readers do, you can use this skill whenever you read."

Student Assessment/CFU's: Think-Pair, Share, Turn and Talk, Thumbs Up/Thumbs Down

Materials: Wonders Anthology, post its, pencils, paper

21st Century Themes and Skills: Communication

Differentiation/Modifications: Visual display of the Wonders Anthology and Readers Writers Workshop Text, student choice of books during independent reading.
