Unit Overview

---

This unit is intended to introduce students to their ability to communicate and interact with others efficiently. Individuals are able to form meaningful relationships with others and interact in healthy, appropriate ways. They encompass respect and accept differences of an individual's race, religion, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity, disability, socioeconomic background, and perspectives of health-related decisions. Students will learn ways to adapt to different environments, adapt to various social and sexual situations, feel supported by individuals, institutions, and experience a sense of belonging, all contribute to social and sexual health.

Core Ideas:

1. Puberty is a time of physical, social, and emotional changes.
2. Resiliency and coping practices.
3. All individuals should feel welcome and included regardless gender, gender expression, and sexual orientation.
4. Family Members impact the development of their children physically, socially, and emotionally.
