

Literature Appreciation

Content Area: English Language Arts
Course(s):
Time Period: Trimester 2
Length: 8-10 sessions throughout the school year
Status: Published

Brief Summary of Unit

Third grade students will be exposed to various types of literature using various methods and resources to develop literature appreciation throughout the school year. Books will include SEL titles to help teach empathy and increase self-awareness, academic achievement, and positive behaviors both in and out of the classroom. Students will also be exposed to titles that promote diversity, equity's nd inclusivity to help students understand multi perspective. This approach follow's Rudine Sims Bishop's framework of Mirrors, Windows, and Sliding Glass Doors. Books are mirrors when readers see their own lives reflected in the pages. Books are windows when they allow readers a view of lives and stories that are different from their own. Books become sliding glass doors when readers feel transported into the world of the story and when they feel empathy for the characters.

Various resources will also be used to expose the third graders to the many types of literary genres available for recreational and educational purposes. In addition, students will explore various children's literary awards such as the Caldecott Medal, Newbery Medal, Coretta Scott King Award and The Robert F. Sibert Informational Book Award and the books that have won these awards.

Third grade students will be exposed to various literary genres, topics, and people through choice-boards at the beginning of the year. Procedures and behavioral expectations for the students while participating in centers/stations will be introduced, modeled, and practiced. They will have the opportunity to interact in a fixed or portable literary center/station which allows for collaboration and creativity while fostering necessary twenty-first century skills. After the initial orientation, students will have time to complete literary stations throughout the school year. Depending on the library lesson, the students may be able to go to centers/stations after the library lesson. Usually once a month, the students have the opportunity to do a center/station or choice-board from Google Classroom that have multiple activities to choose from for the whole library class. The literary centers/stations for the week are usually the same for all grade levels.

This unit is designed to be part of a developmental progression across grade levels and make interdisciplinary connections across content areas including physical and social sciences, technology, career readiness, cultural awareness, and global citizenship. During this course, students are provided with opportunities to develop skills that pertain to a variety of careers.

Revision Date: July 2023

Standards

In accordance with New Jersey's Chapter 32 Diversity and Inclusion Law, this unit includes instructional materials that highlight and promote diversity, including: equity, inclusion, tolerance, and belonging in connection with gender, race and ethnicity, disabilities, and religious tolerance.

This unit includes instructional materials that highlight the history and contributions of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in accordance with the New Jersey Student Learning Standards in Social Studies.

This unit further reflects the goals of the Holocaust Education mandate where students are able to identify and analyze applicable theories concerning human nature and behavior; understand the consequences of prejudice and discrimination; understand that issues of moral dilemma and conscience have a profound impact on life; and understand the personal responsibility that each citizen bears to fight racism and hatred whenever and wherever it happens.

This unit also reflects the goals of the Department of Education and the Amistad Commission including the infusion of the history of Africans and African-Americans into the curriculum in order to provide an accurate, complete, and inclusive history regarding the importance of African-Americans to the growth and development of American society in a global context.

The identified standards reflect a developmental progression across grades/ levels and make interdisciplinary connections across content areas including social sciences, technology, career readiness, cultural awareness and global citizenship. The standards that follow are relevant to this course in addition to the associated content-based standards listed below.

Essential Questions/Enduring Understandings

- • How are books categorized by genres?
- • How are works of nonfiction written in order for a reader to connect to another person's personal experience?
- • How can literature help me empathize with characters that are different than me?
- • How can reading become a foundational skill for learning, personal growth, and enjoyment?
- • What are biographies?
- • What are some different formats that you can read books in? (i.e. graphic novels, etc.)
- • What is a literary genre? How many literary genres are there?
- • Why is it important to be familiar with and explore different award winning literature?
- • How do you identify and locate an award winning children's book?
- • How can I understand and appreciate all types of literary genres?
- • What are the criteria for an award winning book?

Students Will Know/Students Will Be Skilled At

- • Listening to literature read aloud enhances understanding.
- • Identifying the differences between genre types.
- • Demonstrating active listening skills.
- • Identifying various children's literary awards and their criteria.

- • Participate in read aloud and storytelling experiences.
- • Reading is an activity that can facilitate personal growth and enjoyment.
- • Responding to literature with retellings, predictions, and discussion.
- • Selecting literature that meets a personal need/interest.
- • There are different genres in literature.
- • To find connections between themselves and characters in the book.
- • To recognize when a character is being treated unfairly.
- • Use illustrations and familiar words to create meaning from text by questioning, reflecting, responding, and evaluating.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Students demonstrate differentiated proficiency through both formative and summative assessments in the classroom. Based on individual student readiness and performance, assessments can be implemented as formative and/or summative.

Developmental progression across years in media is evidenced through benchmark assessments as part of the media specialist's Student Growth Objective (SGO). Student proficiency allows for additional or alternative assessment based on demonstration or absence of skill.

The performance tasks listed below are examples of the types of assessments teachers may use in the classroom and the data collected by the district to track student progress.

- • Formative- Students compare a book in print and another format (ebook/video/audio book).
- • Formative- Students will access and navigate through an ebook.
- • Formative- Students will answer questions about characters and compare characters from other familiar stories.
- • Formative- Students will develop and state an opinion regarding a piece of literature.
- • Formative- Students will identify the genre of a particular book.
- • Formative- Students will listen attentively to books read aloud.
- • Summative- Students will independently locate various genres within the library media center.

Learning Plan

Media Specialists may personalize instruction during this unit and address the distinct learning needs, interests, aspirations, or cultural backgrounds of individual students.

Media Specialists at the elementary level design their own unique lesson plans in order to incorporate the essential questions provided in this unit. The order in which this information is presented is dependent upon the variables specific to each elementary school community. For example, students may be called to the carpet for a lesson followed by guided practice, then independent practice. After the lesson, students will check out books. Library Media time ends with an electronic story or students going to a makerspace station.

Third grade students will be exposed to various types of literature using various methods and resources to develop literature appreciation throughout the school year. Books will include SEL titles to help teach empathy and increase self-awareness, academic achievement, and positive behaviors both in and out of the classroom. Students will also be exposed to inclusion titles to help students understand what it's like for people who are different from them. Various resources will also be used to expose the third graders to the many types of literature genres available for recreational and educational purposes.

- • Compare books of different genres.
- • Compare books they have read.
- • Instruct and reinforce the appropriate skills necessary to be effective listeners while a story is being read aloud.
- • Introduce key vocabulary: title, fiction, nonfiction, poetry, biography, author, illustrator, illustrations, ebook, audiobook, genre, series, award winning literature, Caldecott Award, Newbery Award
- • Mini lessons may include: Differentiating between literary genres, identifying characteristics of literary genres, locating literary genres in the library media center, read kindness focused or SEL books, read and compare different characters in different books, look at different characters and compare them to ourselves, identify and discuss mistreatment of characters, etc.
- • Preview the essential questions and connect to learning throughout the unit.
- • Select resources for recreational and informational purposes.
- • Share books by favorite authors and illustrators.
- • Utilize relevant fiction and nonfiction books, audiobooks, ebooks, and related videos.

Materials

The materials used in this course allow for integration of a variety of instructional, enrichment, and intervention materials that support student learners at all levels in the school and home environments. Associated web content and media sources are infused into the unit as applicable and available.
