

Unit 05: Music as an Interdisciplinary Study of Philosophy, History, and Culture

Content Area: Music
Course(s):
Time Period: Marking Period 4
Length: ongoing
Status: Published

Brief Summary of Unit - Revised June 2021

Recognizing that music is created and exists within the social structure of a time period and culture, students will delve into the reasons for music-making and how music has implications for our world. Students will dissect their own musical repertoire, explore the historic and philosophical foundations of music-making, apply this information to their own music-making, and create meaning for themselves as to what art and music mean in their life and their world.

LA.RI.11-12.1	Accurately cite strong and thorough textual evidence, (e.g., via discussion, written response, etc.), to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferentially, including determining where the text leaves matters uncertain.
LA.RI.11-12.2	Determine two or more central ideas of a text, and analyze their development and how they interact to provide a complex analysis; provide an objective summary of the text.
LA.RI.11-12.3	Analyze a complex set of ideas or sequence of events and explain how specific individuals, ideas, or events interact and develop over the course of the text.
LA.RI.11-12.7	Integrate and evaluate multiple sources of information presented in different media or formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively) as well as in words in order to address a question or solve a problem.
LA.RI.11-12.8	Describe and evaluate the reasoning in seminal U.S. and global texts, including the application of constitutional principles and use of legal reasoning (e.g., in U.S. Supreme Court majority opinions and dissents) and the premises, purposes, and arguments in works of public advocacy (e.g., The Federalist, presidential addresses).
LA.RI.11-12.9	Analyze and reflect on (e.g., practical knowledge, historical/cultural context, and background knowledge) documents of historical and literary significance for their themes, purposes and rhetorical features, including primary source documents relevant to U.S. and/or global history.
LA.SL.11-12.1.A	Come to discussions prepared, having read and researched material under study; explicitly draw on that preparation by referring to evidence from texts and other research on the topic or issue to stimulate a thoughtful, well reasoned exchange of ideas.
LA.SL.11-12.1.B	Collaborate with peers to promote civil, democratic discussions and decision-making, set clear goals and assessments (e.g., student developed rubrics), and establish individual roles as needed.
LA.SL.11-12.1.C	Propel conversations by posing and responding to questions that probe reasoning and evidence; ensure a hearing for a full range of positions on a topic or issue; clarify, verify, or challenge ideas and conclusions; and promote divergent and creative perspectives.

LA.SL.11-12.1.D	Respond thoughtfully to diverse perspectives; synthesize comments, claims, and evidence made on all sides of an issue; resolve contradictions when possible; and determine what additional information or research is required to deepen the investigation or complete the task.

SJ.7	Students will develop language and knowledge to accurately and respectfully describe how people (including themselves) are both similar to and different from each other and others in their identity groups.
SJ.8	Students will respectfully express curiosity about the history and lived experiences of others and will exchange ideas and beliefs in an open-minded way.
SJ.9	Students will respond to diversity by building empathy, respect, understanding and connection.
SJ.10	Students will examine diversity in social, cultural, political and historical contexts rather than in ways that are superficial or oversimplified.
SJ.11	Students will recognize stereotypes and relate to people as individuals rather than representatives of groups.
SJ.12	Students will recognize unfairness on the individual level (e.g., biased speech) and injustice at the institutional or systemic level (e.g., discrimination).
SJ.13	Students will analyze the harmful impact of bias and injustice on the world, historically and today.
SJ.14	Students will recognize that power and privilege influence relationships on interpersonal, intergroup and institutional levels and consider how they have been affected by those dynamics.
SJ.15	Students will identify figures, groups, events and a variety of strategies and philosophies relevant to the history of social justice around the world.
SJ.16	Students will express empathy when people are excluded or mistreated because of their identities and concern when they themselves experience bias.
SJ.17	Students will recognize their own responsibility to stand up to exclusion, prejudice and injustice.

SJ.20	Students will plan and carry out collective action against bias and injustice in the world and will evaluate what strategies are most effective.

SJ.DI	Diversity
CRP.K-12.CRP1	Act as a responsible and contributing citizen and employee.
CRP.K-12.CRP1.1	Career-ready individuals understand the obligations and responsibilities of being a member of a community, and they demonstrate this understanding every day through their interactions with others. They are conscientious of the impacts of their decisions on others and the environment around them. They think about the near-term and long-term consequences of their actions and seek to act in ways that contribute to the betterment of their teams, families, community and workplace. They are reliable and consistent in going beyond the minimum expectation and in participating in activities that serve the greater good.
CRP.K-12.CRP2	Apply appropriate academic and technical skills.
CRP.K-12.CRP2.1	Career-ready individuals readily access and use the knowledge and skills acquired through experience and education to be more productive. They make connections between abstract concepts with real-world applications, and they make correct insights about when it is appropriate to apply the use of an academic skill in a workplace situation.
CRP.K-12.CRP4	Communicate clearly and effectively and with reason.
CRP.K-12.CRP4.1	Career-ready individuals communicate thoughts, ideas, and action plans with clarity, whether using written, verbal, and/or visual methods. They communicate in the workplace with clarity and purpose to make maximum use of their own and others' time. They are excellent writers; they master conventions, word choice, and organization, and use effective tone and presentation skills to articulate ideas. They are skilled at interacting with others; they are active listeners and speak clearly and with purpose. Career-ready individuals think about the audience for their communication and prepare accordingly to ensure the desired outcome.
CRP.K-12.CRP5	Consider the environmental, social and economic impacts of decisions.
CRP.K-12.CRP5.1	Career-ready individuals understand the interrelated nature of their actions and regularly make decisions that positively impact and/or mitigate negative impact on other people, organization, and the environment. They are aware of and utilize new technologies, understandings, procedures, materials, and regulations affecting the nature of their work as it relates to the impact on the social condition, the environment and the profitability of the organization.
CRP.K-12.CRP6	Demonstrate creativity and innovation.
CRP.K-12.CRP6.1	Career-ready individuals regularly think of ideas that solve problems in new and different ways, and they contribute those ideas in a useful and productive manner to improve their organization. They can consider unconventional ideas and suggestions as solutions to issues, tasks or problems, and they discern which ideas and suggestions will add greatest value. They seek new methods, practices, and ideas from a variety of sources and seek to apply those ideas to their own workplace. They take action on their ideas and understand how to bring innovation to an organization.
CRP.K-12.CRP8	Utilize critical thinking to make sense of problems and persevere in solving them.
CRP.K-12.CRP8.1	Career-ready individuals readily recognize problems in the workplace, understand the nature of the problem, and devise effective plans to solve the problem. They are aware of problems when they occur and take action quickly to address the problem; they thoughtfully investigate the root cause of the problem prior to introducing solutions. They carefully consider the options to solve the problem. Once a solution is agreed upon, they follow through to ensure the problem is solved, whether through their own actions or the actions of others.

CRP.K-12.CRP9	Model integrity, ethical leadership and effective management.
CRP.K-12.CRP9.1	Career-ready individuals consistently act in ways that align personal and community-held ideals and principles while employing strategies to positively influence others in the workplace. They have a clear understanding of integrity and act on this understanding in every decision. They use a variety of means to positively impact the directions and actions of a team or organization, and they apply insights into human behavior to change others' action, attitudes and/or beliefs. They recognize the near-term and long-term effects that management's actions and attitudes can have on productivity, morals and organizational culture.
CRP.K-12.CRP12	Work productively in teams while using cultural global competence.
CRP.K-12.CRP12.1	Career-ready individuals positively contribute to every team, whether formal or informal. They apply an awareness of cultural difference to avoid barriers to productive and positive interaction. They find ways to increase the engagement and contribution of all team members. They plan and facilitate effective team meetings.

Essential Questions/Enduring Understandings

- Discovering and identifying the influences and motives of a composer or creator leads to a higher level of understanding and performance.
- How and why do historical and cultural influences affect musical performance?
- How do personal values and social mores affect music and our reactions to music?
- It is the responsibility of the performers to convey an interpretation to the audience based upon informed musical decisions, as well as the conductor's wishes.
- Making music is a ritual act that builds cultural and social identity.
- Many consider choral music and Western art music unjust to marginalized and underrepresented communities and people.
- Music and the arts try to create meaning and sense out of a confusing, complex world.
- Music is always situated within a societal, cultural, and historical context.
- Music plays an essential role in the ceremonies and traditions of our lives and culture.
- Philosophical thought and inquiry is valuable in constructing one's understanding of the world.
- What is music and what is art?

Students Will Know/Students Will Be Skilled At

- Basic philosophical ideas about the arts, aesthetics, and their connection to the world.
- How music, the arts, and various disciplines outside the arts are interrelated.
- How to adapt preparation and performance techniques to reflect and correct the historical and cultural context of the music being performed.
- How to analyze a piece for the elements that situate it in a cultural and historical space, including information about the time period, style, composer, and their influences.
- How to engage in philosophical writing and discussion about music-making, its purpose, and its meaning to us and our culture.
- How to engage with texts discussing music and art philosophy.
- How to explore the meaning of a choral work and how that meaning can vary between listeners, including performer, audience, composer, community, society, etc.

- How to speak about music and art using language common across disciplines.
- Key terms and vocabulary, including art, culture, societal values and mores, philosophy, aesthetics and aesthetic elements of art works, humanities, artistic discipline, informed interpretation, ritual, context.
- The context, background, and authors of the texts sung, and their connection to culture, history, religion, poetry, and/or literature.
- The historical and cultural origins of choruses, choirs, and madrigals.
- Translations of music sung in foreign languages.
- Women, black, brown, and LGBTQ communities are underrepresented in classical music and art and were historically excluded from participation.

Learning Plan

- After introducing students to philosophical ideas regarding the Arts, students read Musicking: The Meanings of Performing and Listening by Christopher Small. Students and teacher make their way through the dissection of the traditional performance experience and the concert hall. Students reflect in discussion and journal writing, both via teacher-generated prompt and student-selected.
- Preview the essential questions and connect to learning throughout the course.
- Students and teacher apply their philosophical discussions to their preparation and performance of repertoire. How does our exploration of music philosophy change or inform your rehearsing and performing? Does it matter? What does music-making mean?
- Students and teacher prepare and perform music from different genres, world cultures, and time periods, selecting pieces written by diverse composers in varied styles.
- Students finally look at themselves and their own life goals in terms of philosophical reflection. They discuss and write on the questions, who am I, who might I become, how does music play a role in my life, how might my work affect the world?
- Students lead the class in identifying the origin of a piece of music, locating and discussing relevant historical and cultural information, as well as societal and global issues that will enhance the understanding and performing of the music.
- Teacher engages students in an examination of any non-Western and/or non-traditional repertoire, studying the global and cultural influences and implications of the repertoire. Students reflect upon the issues raised and the connection and application to their own lives. Students also reflect upon the explicit and implicit social justice issues raised in given repertoire and look for ways to address these concerns in their work.
- Teacher engages students in philosophical texts, looking at the meaning and purpose of music and art. First, using excerpts from The Cartoon Introduction to Philosophy by Michael F. Patton and Aesthetics: A Beginners' Guide by Charles Taliaferro, the teacher discusses the basics of philosophical thought and inquiry, as well as the more art-specific study of aesthetics.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Performing Arts students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Evidence of progression may be demonstrated in divergent ways through the Artistic Processes of Creating, Performing/Presenting/Producing, Connecting, and Responding.

- Deconstruct a musical situation to critically analyze its many possible meanings.
- Dialogue about music using knowledge of historical, cultural, and current social mores.

- Evaluate performances (individual, corporate, and those of other performing groups) for accuracy and effectiveness of style and interpretation.
- Explore and reflect on the essential questions through discussions and journaling.
- Perform music from all over the world with cultural, historical, stylistic, and situational awareness and integrity.
- Read, digest, and discuss basic philosophical texts in relation to art, music, and culture.
- Reflect on the social issues of class, gender, race, sexuality, morality, socio-economic background raised by Western art music, as well as current popular music.
- Write and reflect on music based upon knowledge, opinion, research, and personal beliefs.
- Write and respond to philosophy, connecting it to practice.

Materials

The materials used in this course allow for integration of a variety of instructional, supplemental, and intervention materials that support student learners at all levels in the school and home environments. Associated web content and media sources are infused into the unit as applicable and available.

- A variety of advanced high school choral repertoire, including but not limited to recommendation lists from the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA), the National Association for Music Education (NAfME), and the NYSSMA Manual
- A variety of articles and essays on social issues, discrimination, and exclusion in the classical arts, including "Classical Music is Finally Reckoning with Racism" (7.16.20 The Washington Post), "Black Scholars Confront White Supremacy in Classical Music" (9.21.20 The New Yorker), and "Julliard Must Modernize or it Will Disappear" (3.8.21 Rolling Stone).
- Aesthetics: A Beginners' Guide by Charles Taliaferro
- Musicking: The Meanings of Performing and Listening by Christopher Small
- The Cartoon Introduction to Philosophy by Michael F. Patton
- The Philosophy Book: Big Ideas Simply Explained published by Dorling Kindersley
- The Republic by Plato

Suggested Strategies for Modifications

This link includes content specific accommodations and modifications for all populations: Performing Arts Accommodations & Modifications

Course-specific modifications include:

- Allow students to choose from several journal, essay, or discussion prompts and allow for multiple methods of response.
- Provide ample space for all students to participate and respond during class discussions.
- Provide opportunity for students to summarize what they read and put information into their own words for the class.
