

Unit 06: Analyzing and Critiquing Music and Musical Performance

Content Area: Music
Course(s):
Time Period: Marking Period 1
Length: ongoing
Status: Published

Brief Summary of Unit - Revised June 2021

By engaging students in the evaluative and feedback process, students gain an ability to look at music and art with a critical ear and eye. Students also take ownership of the entire process, rehearsal through performance, reflecting throughout the process on how they and their peers can improve their craft. This ability to make informed judgments about their work will serve students in whatever field they pursue beyond high school.

CRP.K-12.CRP1	Act as a responsible and contributing citizen and employee.
CRP.K-12.CRP1.1	Career-ready individuals understand the obligations and responsibilities of being a member of a community, and they demonstrate this understanding every day through their interactions with others. They are conscientious of the impacts of their decisions on others and the environment around them. They think about the near-term and long-term consequences of their actions and seek to act in ways that contribute to the betterment of their teams, families, community and workplace. They are reliable and consistent in going beyond the minimum expectation and in participating in activities that serve the greater good.
CRP.K-12.CRP2	Apply appropriate academic and technical skills.
CRP.K-12.CRP2.1	Career-ready individuals readily access and use the knowledge and skills acquired through experience and education to be more productive. They make connections between abstract concepts with real-world applications, and they make correct insights about when it is appropriate to apply the use of an academic skill in a workplace situation.
CRP.K-12.CRP4	Communicate clearly and effectively and with reason.
CRP.K-12.CRP4.1	Career-ready individuals communicate thoughts, ideas, and action plans with clarity, whether using written, verbal, and/or visual methods. They communicate in the workplace with clarity and purpose to make maximum use of their own and others' time. They are excellent writers; they master conventions, word choice, and organization, and use effective tone and presentation skills to articulate ideas. They are skilled at interacting with others; they are active listeners and speak clearly and with purpose. Career-ready individuals think about the audience for their communication and prepare accordingly to ensure the desired outcome.
CRP.K-12.CRP5.1	Career-ready individuals understand the interrelated nature of their actions and regularly make decisions that positively impact and/or mitigate negative impact on other people, organization, and the environment. They are aware of and utilize new technologies, understandings, procedures, materials, and regulations affecting the nature of their work as it relates to the impact on the social condition, the environment and the profitability of the organization.
CRP.K-12.CRP6	Demonstrate creativity and innovation.
CRP.K-12.CRP6.1	Career-ready individuals regularly think of ideas that solve problems in new and different ways, and they contribute those ideas in a useful and productive manner to improve their organization. They can consider unconventional ideas and suggestions as solutions to issues, tasks or problems, and they discern which ideas and suggestions will add greatest value. They seek new methods, practices, and ideas from a variety of sources and seek to apply those ideas to their own workplace. They take action on their ideas and understand how to bring innovation to an organization.
CRP.K-12.CRP8	Utilize critical thinking to make sense of problems and persevere in solving them.
CRP.K-12.CRP8.1	Career-ready individuals readily recognize problems in the workplace, understand the nature of the problem, and devise effective plans to solve the problem. They are aware of problems when they occur and take action quickly to address the problem; they thoughtfully investigate the root cause of the problem prior to introducing solutions. They carefully consider the options to solve the problem. Once a solution is agreed upon, they follow through to ensure the problem is solved, whether through their own actions or the actions of others.

CRP.K-12.CRP9

Model integrity, ethical leadership and effective management.

CRP.K-12.CRP9.1

Career-ready individuals consistently act in ways that align personal and community-held ideals and principles while employing strategies to positively influence others in the workplace. They have a clear understanding of integrity and act on this understanding in every decision. They use a variety of means to positively impact the directions and actions of a team or organization, and they apply insights into human behavior to change others' action, attitudes and/or beliefs. They recognize the near-term and long-term effects that management's actions and attitudes can have on productivity, morals and organizational culture.

CRP.K-12.CRP10

Plan education and career paths aligned to personal goals.

CRP.K-12.CRP10.1

Career-ready individuals take personal ownership of their own education and career goals, and they regularly act on a plan to attain these goals. They understand their own career interests, preferences, goals, and requirements. They have perspective regarding the pathways available to them and the time, effort, experience and other requirements to pursue each, including a path of entrepreneurship. They recognize the value of each step in the education and experiential process, and they recognize that nearly all career paths require ongoing education and experience. They seek counselors, mentors, and other experts to assist in the planning and execution of career and personal goals.

CRP.K-12.CRP12

Work productively in teams while using cultural global competence.

CRP.K-12.CRP12.1

Career-ready individuals positively contribute to every team, whether formal or informal. They apply an awareness of cultural difference to avoid barriers to productive and positive interaction. They find ways to increase the engagement and contribution of all team members. They plan and facilitate effective team meetings.

Essential Questions/Enduring Understandings

- Awareness is essential to careful listening.
- Critical listening means that one's emotional response is ignored so the musical elements can be judged with an objective ear.
- Each thoughtful opinion of music is valid.
- How and why does evaluation of musical performances make us better musicians?
- Listening to and evaluating performances of other musical ensembles promotes the continual development of musicianship.
- Professional musicians are constantly assessing their own practicing and performing.
- Reflection and self-assessment are essential to determining areas in need of improvement.
- The ability to self-assess benefits people in all fields of study.
- The evaluation of pieces and works from the other arts involves the same process of examining the essential elements.
- Using specific criteria for the evaluation of music aids in and furthers one's appreciation of a piece of music or a performance of a piece of music.
- What makes a piece of music beautiful?
- Why is it valuable to listen to, analyze, and describe music and music performances?

Students Will Know/Students Will Be Skilled At

- Accepted performance practices in choral and vocal music, in relation to setting, occasion, and musical genre.
- Awareness is essential to careful listening.
- Each piece of music is unique in its characteristics, time period, culture, and the intent of its composer
- Each thoughtful and evidenced opinion of music is valid.
- How to form and use an appropriate criteria for evaluation of quality music.
- How to listen to and describe music objectively and critically.
- How to use musical vocabulary in the evaluation of musical performances, including their own.
- Listening to and evaluating performances of other groups promotes the continual development of musicianship.
- Self-assessment and critical listening is essential for determining areas in need of improvement.
- The differences in the sound of various musical tones/colors (e.g. bright/dark, back/forward, light/heavy)
- Using a specific criteria for the evaluation of music aids in and furthers one's appreciation of a piece of music.
- Why they prefer some types of music over others.

Learning Plan

- Preview the essential questions and connect to learning throughout the course.
- Students and teacher discuss, describe and evaluate recordings of professional performances and their own performances.
- Students are trained to acknowledge their mistakes by raising their hand in the midst of the rehearsal. This allows the class to save time by addressing fewer student mistakes. This promotes a level of conscientization, since the student knows the mistake has been made and he or she has the responsibility to fix the problem. The teacher does not need to address it unless the mistake is made repeatedly.
- Students bring and share works of art from other fields, including painting, sculpture, crafts, photography, poetry, etc., and make connections to music. How are art pieces the same and different from music? How do we discuss them in similar ways? What elements are commonalities across disciplines?
- Students discuss the various criteria used to evaluate musical performances and create their own rubric for listening. The teacher guides the creation of the rubric to make certain it includes essential musical elements, such as pitch, intonation, rhythm, pulse, dynamics, articulations, diction, etc. Students shape the rubric as a class and apply it to their own personal listening.
- Students discuss the ways that thoughtful reflection and critique improve their individual and collective musical skills, and how the ability to reflect and self-evaluate will benefit them in any field they pursue in the future.
- Students explore what it means to be aware in listening and how awareness affects performance. This is done using recordings and several of the choir's first performances. Students not only discuss the musical elements they hear, but how present and aware they were in the midst of performing.
- Students reflect on a rehearsal, or a portion of the rehearsal, and are asked to evaluate the work completed and formulate the next step in the process of learning the piece of music. Individual students offer feedback to their section and to the teacher and guide the approach for the next rehearsal.
- Students write thoughtful musical critiques and evaluations using the established criteria and/or rubric as well as a rich vocabulary of musical terminology.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Performing Arts students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Evidence of progression may be demonstrated in divergent ways through the Artistic Processes of Creating, Performing/ Presenting/ Producing, Connecting, and Responding.

- Accurately analyze and describe performances using rich musical vocabulary, both written and orally.
- Assess a rehearsal and provide constructive feedback for improvement, both to individuals and to the choir as a whole.
- Connect the other artistic fields to music, finding commonalities in the way works of art are discussed, evaluated, and critiqued.
- Determine their own criteria for music evaluation and create their own rubric.
- Evaluate a piece's progress within the choral rehearsal and assess what aspects need attention in the context of the entire choir or the choir section.
- Evaluate one's own progress in the choral rehearsal and general musical growth, identifying areas in need of further study or attention.
- Evaluate their own performances and musical interpretations through listening to recordings and self-assessing with evidence supported responses.
- Explore and reflect on the essential questions through discussions and journaling.
- Identify specific elements that create a quality piece of music and/or an accurate, appropriate, and pleasing performance.

Materials

The materials used in this course allow for integration of a variety of instructional, supplemental, and intervention materials that support student learners at all levels in the school and home environments. Associated web content and media sources are infused into the unit as applicable and available.

- A variety of advanced high school choral repertoire, including but not limited to recommendation lists from the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA), the National Association for Music Education (NAfME), and the NYSSMA Manual.
- A variety of recordings of choral repertoire, performed by professional and other high school ensembles.

Suggested Strategies for Modifications

This link includes content specific accommodations and modifications for all populations: Performing Arts Accommodations & Modifications

Course-specific modifications include:

- Allow students to choose from several journal, essay, or discussion prompts and allow for multiple methods of response.
- Allow students to create their own personal system of evaluation and critique, allowing some to be more complex and all-encompassing than others. This could allow for a student to focus on fewer musical elements but with more depth.

- Provide ample space for all students to participate and respond during class discussions.
