Essential Questions/Enduring Understandings

- How do the three forms of minor differ in construction and usage?
- Minor scales are related to major scales and share their key signatures.
- There are many more scales, called modes, that are used in music composition.
- What do I hear when I listen to music?
- What is the difference between chromatic, whole tone, major, and minor scales?

Students Will Know/Students Will Be Skilled At

- How to use solfege to perform the three forms of the minor scale.
- How to use whole steps and half steps to construct the three forms of the minor scale.
- How to visually and aurally identify intervals in a given scale.
- Recognizing which notes will be changeable in a given minor key (the 6th and 7th scale degrees).
- The minor key signatures and their relative and parallel majors.
- The three forms of minor: natural, harmonic, and melodic, and the differences between each.
- Writing a melody in the minor mode.

Learning Plan

- Continue practice of aural identification of major, chromatic, whole tone, natural, harmonic, and melodic minor scales.
- Preview the essential questions and return to them throughout the course, in discussion and written assignments.
- Students practice writing scales in the three forms of minor from given starting notes.
- Teacher asks students to listen to major and the three minor scales. Students describe the aural differences between them.
- Teacher demonstrates the relationship of major key signatures and minor scales and students determine how to find the tonic note in minor from a key signature.

- Teacher demonstrates the rules, formulas, and patterns for constructing minor scales in notation.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Performing Arts students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Evidence of progression may be demonstrated in divergent ways through the Artistic Processes of Creating, Performing/ Presenting/ Producing, Connecting, and Responding.

- Given a key signature, students will write the corresponding major and minor scales, parallel and relative.
- Given a key signature, students will write the relative major and minor scale for each key signature.
- Students will compose minor melodies, using each of the forms of minor.
- Students will hear, aurally recognize, and identify the difference between natural, harmonic, and melodic minor scales.
- Students will write a minor scale from a given starting note in each of the three forms of minor.
