Objectives

Students will know:

- how to use physicality to bring life to a character through stage movement taking into consideration age, time period, class, etc.
- how to apply movement techniques to change their body shape and positions to embody the character.
- basic staging principles and how they are applied.

Students will be skilled at:

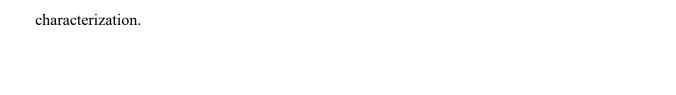

- developing blocking in collaboration with a scene partner.
- portraying characters physically through concepts like tempo, gesture, and shape.
- performing staging and approaching onstage movement authentically.

Learning Plan

- Discuss physicality and movement on the stage
- Contrast theatrical movements and authentic movements
- Students prepare and present three vignettes of people they observed in the world, focusing on precision and characterization
- Students prepare and present two statues conveying complex concepts and feelings
- Students prepare pairs of statues telling a clear story
- Students offer feedback and adjust the vignettes and statues to make them clearer
- Students devise a pantomime piece for Gala
- Students perform their piece at Gala
- Discuss staging techniques and different approaches to staging
- Students develop their own staging for scenes throughout the course

Assessments

- Students will receive feedback throughout their presentations of vignettes and statues.
- Students will be assessed at Gala based on their precision, preparedness, and characterization.
- Students will receive feedback on their scene presentations throughout the year.
- Students will be assessed at both the Winter and Spring Showcases based on their physicality and
