DA.9-12.1.1.12acc.Pr6c	Implement performance strategies to enhance projection. Demonstrate leadership qualities (e.g., commitment, dependability, responsibility, cooperation) and model performance etiquette and performance practices during class, rehearsal and performance. Accept notes from the choreographer and apply corrections to future performances. Document the rehearsal and performance process using dance and production terminology. Analyze and evaluate the success of a performance.

DA.9-12.1.1.12acc.Re9a	Differentiate artistic criteria to determine what makes an effective performance and justify the point of view. Consider content, context, genre, style, and/or cultural movement practice to comprehend artistic expression. Use genre-specific dance terminology.
DA.9-12.1.1.12acc.Cn10a	Evaluate personal choreography and how personal experiences and exposure to various cultures influences individual, emotional, intellectual, and kinesthetic responses to dance works.
DA.9-12.1.1.12acc.Cn10b	Collaboratively investigate global issues, including climate change, to inform the development of an original dance project. Evaluate and present ways in which critical concepts are communicated metaphorically through dance.
DA.9-12.1.1.12acc.Cn11a	Analyze how the role of dance in a global society has influenced various cultures, societies and historical periods throughout history. Examine how innovations in the arts have impacted dance-making in these communities in relation to the ideas and perspectives of the people from whom the dances originate.

Essential Questions

EQ

How do dancers work with time, space and energy to communicate artistic expression?

Why do dancers need to understand the choreographic elements?

What are some decision-making processes that choreographers use?

EU

Time, space and energy elements are the ingredients of all dance work.

Choreographers and dancers use various tools to develop and refine their dance-making.

Students Will Know/Students Will be Skilled at

Students will know how to differentiate levels, directional planes and spatial relationships within their movement.

Students will be skilled at adapting tempo and working within various rhythm patterns in their movement.

Students will know how to use energy dynamics to change the way their movement is performed (light-strong, direct-indirect, free-bound, quick-sustained).

Students will be skilled at altering existing movement using repetition, tempo change, retrograde, reversal, transposition, ABA, theme and variation, canon, unison, body percussion, direction change, etc and creating short movement phrases of their own.

Learning Plan

Students will discuss the essential questions.

Students will be guided through composition exercises emphasizing time, space and energy. This will include projects such as movement sentences and scavenger hunts, dance libs, dance maps and card games designed by the teacher to facilitate creative ideas.

Students will be given short term projects to create, perform, revise and re-perform movement compositions. The ideas of unison, canon, repetition, retrograde, transposing, body percussion, call and response, level and directional changes, reversal, theme and variation, ABA, narrative vs. abstraction.

Students will alter existing choreography within a performance piece using the tools listed above.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Self-assessments through journal writing and conversation.

Peer analysis through group presentations.

Performance of compositions and ability to revise work based on feedback.

Ability to compose short movement phrases with others and a solo work that is at least one minute in length.

Materials

Appropriate space

Reading material supplied by teacher

Composition games and strategies provided by teacher.

Feedback questions provided by teacher.

Suggested Strategies for Modification

Represent information in multiple formats and media. Provide multiple pathways for students' actions and expressions. Provide multiple ways to engage students' interests and motivation.

Injured students will write or record in class observations; read and analyze material based on the lessons and present some type of individual project to the class in order to receive participation credit. If they are in a small group they will give direction to the rest of the group and aid in the presentation process. If a student's injury is isolated to one part of the body, the student is expected to participate in the movement portion of the assignment and not use that body part.

Long term injuries will be dealt with on a case by case basis.
