

Unit 4: Other Genocides

Content Area: Social Studies
Course(s):
Time Period: Marking Period 2
Length: Five Weeks
Status: Published

Summary

In the Holocaust and Genocide Studies course, students analyze the causes and effects of the Holocaust and other mass genocides while considering how atrocities like those of the past can be prevented. Using a social science lens and an interdisciplinary approach, students examine the impact, destruction, and cultural trauma associated with the Holocaust and other genocides. Frameworks are provided to students to understand how escalation by perpetrators takes place and to compare and contrast the historical across time periods, contexts, and geographic areas.

This unit is part of the larger aforementioned course sequence and specifically focuses on other genocides. Whether motivated by self-preservation or by hatred, state authorities in other countries and other historical periods have precipitated mass destruction in the belief of their racial, political, ideological, or geographic superiority. In this unit, students will scrutinize incidents of genocide in other parts of the world. Underlying this unit is an intention that awareness of genocide episodes will inspire renewed efforts to help prevent future genocides. In addition to examining the phenomenon of genocide, this unit will urge students to support and be knowledgeable of groups that monitor violations of human rights and promote resolution of violent social conflict through peaceful negotiation.

Revised: August 2023

Standards

8.2.12.ETW.4: Research historical tensions between environmental and economic considerations as driven by human needs and wants in the development of a technological product and present the competing viewpoints.

9.4.12.CI.1: Demonstrate the ability to reflect, analyze, and use creative skills and ideas.

9.4.12.IML.8: Evaluate media sources for point of view, bias, and motivations.

9.4.12.IML.9: Analyze the decisions creators make to reveal explicit and implicit messages within information and media.

NJSLSA.R1. Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences and relevant connections from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.

NJSLSA.R2. Determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.

NJSLSA.R7. Integrate and evaluate content presented in diverse media and formats, including visually and quantitatively, as well as in words.

RH.11-12.1. Accurately cite strong and thorough textual evidence, (e.g., via discussion, written response, etc.), to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, connecting insights gained from specific details to develop an understanding of the text as a whole.

This unit further reflects the goals of the Holocaust Education mandate where students are able to identify and analyze applicable theories concerning human nature and behavior; understand that genocide is a consequence of prejudice and discrimination; understand that issues of moral dilemma and conscience have a profound impact on life; and understand the personal responsibility that each citizen bears to fight racism and hatred whenever and wherever it happens.

In accordance with New Jersey's Chapter 32 Diversity and Inclusion Law, this unit includes instructional materials that highlight and promote diversity, including: equity, inclusion, tolerance, and belonging in connection with gender and sexual orientation, race and ethnicity, disabilities, and religious tolerance.

This unit is aligned to the English Language Development (ELD) standards for kindergarten through grade 12 since multilingual learners develop content and language concurrently, with academic content in a classroom where the language of instruction is English. As a result, language learning and language as a means for learning academic content are interchangeable. The following ELD standards are relevant for this unit and course of study:

- Standard 1: Language for Social and Instructional Purposes: English language learners communicate for social and instructional purposes within the school setting.
- Standard 5: Language for Social Studies: English language learners communicate information, ideas and concepts necessary for academic success in the content area of Social Studies.

The standards in this unit reflect a developmental progression across grade levels and make interdisciplinary connections across content areas including the humanities, technology, career readiness, cultural awareness, and global citizenship.

Essential Questions and Enduring Understandings

Essential Questions:

- Why have other genocides occurred?
- How can future genocides be prevented?

Enduring Understandings:

- Article II of the Genocide Convention can be used to analyze and classify incidents as genocides.
- Genocide Watch's Ten Stages theory helps one understand how and when a genocide may be occurring; at each stage, preventive measures can stop it.

Objectives

Students will know:

- key terms, concepts, and personalities: 10 Stages of Genocide, United Nations, Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Refugees, Geneva Convention
- genocides have taken place in a number of other places, including, but not limited to the United States (Indigenous people), Armenia, Ukraine, Rape of Nanking, Cambodia, Bosnia, Rwanda, Darfur.
- the various organizations that are committed to the elimination or reduction of genocide.
- steps they can take as individuals and in groups to try to prevent genocide.

Students will be skilled at:

- analyzing documents, stories, photos, and film in regard to other genocides.
- comparing documents and testimonials in regard to other genocides.
- discovering causes and effects in regard to other genocides.
- locating the places on a map that have experienced genocidal episodes, in time and space.

Learning Plan

This unit includes, but is not limited to, the following learning strategies:

Introduction to Other Genocides Analysis - Students will view Hotel Rwanda to compare the Rwandan genocide to the key phases of the Holocaust. Students will also analyze the response (or lack thereof) from the international community.

Zlata's Diary Comparison - Students will read, in full or excerpts, from Zlata's Diary and other primary sources and discuss.

Global Genocides Group Project - Students will create and present group work projects on other genocides using the 10 Stages of Genocide (Trail of Tears, Armenia, Ukraine, Rape of Nanking, Cambodia, Bosnia, Rwanda, Darfur). Students will review chronology of vital world events in this era for each genocide.

The Good Lie Analysis - Students will view The Good Lie to analyze the experience of Sudanese refugees and analyze the response of the international community.

Refugee Analysis - Students will create and present group work projects on human rights organizations.

Note: Other strategies to address the learning objectives may include, but are not limited to direct instruction, primary and secondary source analysis (including annotations, critique, questioning and close reading strategies), self and peer review, think-pair-share activities, creating visual representations, debates, film analysis, Socratic seminars, small group discussions, simulations, mapping activities, jigsaw activities, gallery walks, web quests, and/or inquiry or problem based learning projects.

Assessment

When taking a Social Studies course, students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Many of the performance tasks below can be implemented as formative and/or summative assessments. As teachers strive for students to demonstrate proficiency, they will need to create additional or alternative assessments based on demonstration or absence of skill.

Formative Assessments:

- Read parts of Facing History and Ourselves on the Armenian Genocide, “Creating enemies of the State: The Armenians” and have discussion.
- Read Zlata's Diary, and report on the pain and degradation inflicted upon the victims of the Bosnian conflict.

Alternative Assessments:

- Curation Project: Students may curate a sample of different artifacts to highlight key concepts as related to Genocide theory as discussed in this unit. They will explain in narrative form how their chosen artifacts reflect concepts discussed in class.

Summative Assessments:

- Create and present group work projects on other genocides using the 8 Stages of Genocide.
- Investigate and report on current organizations that are working to reduce and possibly eliminate present and future genocides. Discuss how the activities of these organizations may serve to alert the world to potential genocide, war crimes or crimes against humanity. Examples include: (Amnesty International, Hate Watch, Anti-Defamation League (ADL), Southern Poverty Law Center, NAACP, Doctors Without Borders, The United Nations, Erase the Hate (MTV), Dith Pran, I*E.A.R.N., Save the Children, Human Rights Watch, International Working Group for Indigenous Affairs, Refugees International)
- Take objective tests/quizzes on key terms, concepts, events, and personalities

Materials

The design of this course allows for the integration of a variety of instructional, supplemental, and intervention materials that support student learners at all levels in the school and home environments. Associated web content and media sources are infused into the unit as applicable and available. In addition to the materials below, the following link connects to district approved textbooks and resources utilized in this course: Core Book List.

The following are approved resources that teachers can include to further unit related objectives:

Films: Hotel Rwanda, The Good Lie

Books: Zlata's Diary, The Rape of Nanking, First They Killed My Father, The War Child, Refugee

Echoes & Reflections - selected testimonies

Any additional resources that are not included in this list will be presented to and reviewed by the supervisor before being included in lesson plans. This ensures resources are reviewed and vetted for relevance and appropriateness prior to implementation.

Suggested Strategies for Modification

This link includes content specific accommodations and modifications for all populations:

These additional strategies are helpful when learning Social Studies content and skills:

- Reading texts aloud for students for difficult concepts.
- Providing opportunities for text-to-speech for written responses.
- Use visual presentations of all materials to include graphic organizers for writing.
- Mark texts with a highlighter.
