Essential Questions

- How can books help us learn about different cultures, traditions, and experiences?
- How can reading stories from many perspectives help us understand the world around us?
- How do authors and illustrators share the stories and perspectives of communities?
- What connections can we make between stories and our own lives?
- Why is it important to learn about and respect the traditions of others?

Students Will Know/Student Will Be Skilled At

- Demonstrating active listening skills.
- Identifying the differences between genre type.
- Listening to literature read aloud enhances understanding.
- Participating in read aloud and storytelling experiences.
- Reading is an activity that can facilitate personal growth and enjoyment.
- Responding to literature with retellings, predictions, discussions.
- Select literature that meets a personal need/interest.
- There are different genres in literature.
- To find connections between themselves and characters in the book.
- To recognize when a character is being treated unfairly.
- Using illustrations and familiar words to create meaning from text by questioning, reflecting, responding and evaluating.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Students demonstrate differentiated proficiency through both formative, summative and benchmark assessments in the classroom. Based on individual student readiness and performance, assessments can be implemented as formative and/or summative.

Developmental progression across years in media is evidenced through benchmark assessments as part of the media specialist's Student Growth Objective (SGO). Follow up diagnostic assessments are used to target skill remediation. Student proficiency allows for additional or alternative assessment based on demonstration or absence of skill.

The performance tasks listed below are examples of the types of assessments teachers may use in the classroom and the data collected by the district to track student progress.

- Formative: Students compare a book in print and another format (ebook/video/audio book)
- Formative: Students will access and navigate through an ebook.
- Formative: Students will answer questions about characters and compare characters from other familiar stories.
- Formative: Students will develop and state an opinion regarding a piece of literature
- Formative: Students will identify the genre of a particular book
- Formative: Students will listen attentively to books read aloud
- Summative/Benchmark/Alternative: Students will independently locate various genres within the library media center.

Learning Plan

Media Specialists may personalize instruction during this unit and address the distinct learning needs, interests, aspirations, or cultural backgrounds of individual students.

Media Specialists at the elementary level design their own unique lesson plans in order to incorporate the essential questions provided in this unit. The order in which this information is presented is dependent upon the variables specific to each elementary school community. For example, students may be called to the carpet for a lesson followed by guided practice, then independent practice. After the lesson, students will check out books. Library Media time ends with an electronic story or students going to a makerspace station.

Second-grade students will be exposed to various types of literature using various methods and resources to develop literature appreciation throughout the school year. Books will include SEL titles to help teach empathy and increase self-awareness, academic achievement, and positive behaviors both in and out of the classroom. Students will also be exposed to inclusion titles to help students understand what it's like for people who are different than them. Students will also be exposed to age appropriate authors and illustrators during author/illustrator studies.
