

Unit 2 - English Colonization

Content Area: Social Studies
Course(s):
Time Period: Trimester 2
Length: Ongoing; Throughout the trimester
Status: Published

Summary

In the fourth grade Social Studies course, students will study the various events and groups of people that led to the development of our nation prior to the War for Independence. Using a specific cultural framework, students will begin with a study of pre-Columbian Indigenous cultures from five major regions of the current continental United States, including a study of the Lenni Lenape of the Eastern Woodlands to enrich students' understanding of New Jersey's history. Students will then examine the motivations for European colonization and will compare and contrast early English settlements. Finally, students will examine how interactions among African, European, and Native American groups impacted their respective cultures in the 1600s and 1700s.

Throughout the course, students will be presented with opportunities to practice and refine the following Social Studies skills:

- Comparison - Compare and contrast different events, cultures, geographic areas, ideas, values, and institutions.
- Interpretation - Interpret information from a wide variety of primary, secondary, and tertiary sources, including but not limited to those listed here.
- Textual Analysis - Critically read various texts and identify text-based evidence.
- Argumentation - Develop a claim and support it with evidence, both in writing and orally.
- Causation - Evaluate the relationship between historical causes and effects and distinguish between long term and immediate effects.

This unit is part of the larger aforementioned course sequence and specifically focuses on the motives for European colonization where students will understand the motivations for colonization and learn about the different colonial regions of the east coast of North America. By the end of this unit, students will be able to compare and contrast key colonies from each region based on their economy, geography, government, and freedoms.

The ability to make informed and reasoned decisions as citizens of a culturally diverse, democratic society in an increasingly globalized world is essential to students' post-secondary success. The skills and content of this unit and the curriculum as a whole encourage students to think critically about important issues, engage in the processes of problem solving, and develop civic competence as part of preparation for college, career, and/or civic life.

Standards

This unit also reflects the goals of the Department of Education and the Amistad Commission including the infusion of the history of Africans and African-Americans into the curriculum in order to provide an accurate, complete, and inclusive history regarding the importance of African-Americans to the growth and development of American society in a global context.

In accordance with New Jersey’s Chapter 32 Diversity and Inclusion Law, this unit includes instructional materials that highlight and promote diversity, including: equity, inclusion, tolerance, and belonging in connection with race and ethnicity and religious tolerance.

This unit challenges students to locate, evaluate, and use information effectively. Information literacy includes, but is not limited to digital, visual, media, textual, and technological literacy. Lessons may include the research process and how information is created and produced; critical thinking and using information resources; research methods, including the difference between primary and secondary sources; the difference between facts, points of view, and opinions, accessing peer-reviewed print and digital library resources; the economic, legal, social, and ethical issues surrounding the use of information.

This unit includes instructional materials that highlight the history and contributions of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in accordance with the New Jersey Student Learning Standards in Social Studies.

This unit is aligned to the English Language Development (ELD) standards for kindergarten through grade 12 since multilingual learners develop content and language concurrently, with academic content in a classroom where the language of instruction is English. As a result, language learning and language as a means for learning academic content are interchangeable. The following ELD standards are relevant for this unit and course of study:

- Standard 1: Language for Social and Instructional Purposes: English language learners communicate for social and instructional purposes within the school setting.
- Standard 5: Language for Social Studies: English language learners communicate information, ideas and concepts necessary for academic success in the content area of Social Studies.

Essential Questions and Enduring Understandings

Essential Questions:

- Why did various groups of people come to North America?
- How did European colonization impact the North American cultural landscape?
- To what extent is the legacy of the thirteen colonies evident today?
- How were the European colonists able to overcome major challenges to create enduring settlements?

Enduring Understandings:

- Colonists came to North America for various reasons, including the search for gold, religious freedom, and power.
- Geography and natural resources affect where and how people live and work.

Objectives

Students will know:

- why different groups of people came to North America.
- how geography, environment, and resources impacted different colonies.
- the challenges colonists faced and how they responded to these challenges.
- how the colony of New Jersey was established.

Students will be skilled at:

- using evidence and elaboration to support a claim.
- comparing and contrasting different motives for colonization.
- comparing and contrasting the colonial regions based on economy, geography, government, and freedoms.
- evaluating the extent of a colony's success.

Learning Plan

The learning plan includes, but is not limited to the following:

- Present students with the words explorer and colonist. Ask the students what they know or think they know about each term. Discuss the difference between exploring and colonizing. Exploring consists of people traveling and searching lands that are new to them. Colonizing consists of people from an outside country establishing control over a different area and its citizens. Explain to students that at the end of the unit they will assess to what extent the term "Age of Exploration" accurately reflects the historical record.
- Introduce the three main motives for colonization by European countries and discuss which countries were largely responsible for colonizing early North America (Spain, England, France, the Netherlands). Reading: TCI Lesson 4, p. 80 & 82.
- Introduce unit vocabulary: Age of Exploration, the Americas, astrolabe, cash crop, explorer (online vocabulary cards and support available on TCI) Encourage students to notice the words in their reading and utilize them in their own writing. Possible suggestions: use the Frayer Model Strategy to create pictures illustrating the meaning of each vocabulary word, assign students to create a skit or short speech that uses vocabulary words.
- Read about Christopher Columbus. (Reading TCI Lesson 5, p. 92-94) Watch the BrainPOP about Christopher Columbus. Students can note the similarities of how BrainPOP and TCI present the information on Columbus.
- Complete the Columbian Exchange interactive lesson from PBS.
- Conduct a Columbian Exchange recipe analysis - assign students common recipes and ask them to analyze the origins of the ingredients to determine if they were originally from the Old World or the New World
- Ask students to analyze primary source materials created by Spanish missionaries like those seen here - ask students to consider what is being depicted and how lack of immunity to diseases like smallpox would affect the Indigenous populations.

- Skip TCI Lesson 5, p. 96-110.
- Read and discuss the Lost Settlement of Roanoke, Jamestown Colony, and The Settlement of Plymouth. Compare and contrast the experiences of these three settlements using Early Colony Comparative Chart.
- Watch PBS's "Guardians of Jamestown" as a class - have students jot down the objects that Safiri and the Time Guardian collect and explain why they represent the complex history of Jamestown.
- Read and discuss TCI Reading activity: Primary Source- The Starving Time and complete the corresponding questions.
- Ask students to discuss the common narrative of "The First Thanksgiving" - map the common themes of their responses on the board. Then watch Brain Pop's "Thanksgiving" and ask students to consider what parts of the historical record we might consider adding or removing to the narrative outlined on the board to make it more complete.
- Optional Extension Activity: Watch "Thanksgiving Myths Busted" and discuss which busted myth was most surprising.
- Read and discuss the three regions of the colonies, focusing on the economy, geography, government, and freedoms of each colony discussed in TCI: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Georgia. Colonial Regions Comparative Chart
- Skip TCI Lesson 7, p. 138 and 150.
- Optional Extension Activity: Read "13 Original Colonies" and complete the comprehension activities.
- Read and discuss TCI Reading activity: Social Studies Stories- Choosing a Career in the Colonies and complete corresponding chart.
- Read and discuss TCI Reading activity: Explore- Answering The Three Basic Economic Questions in the American Colonies and complete corresponding questions.
- Read and discuss TCI Reading activity: Explore- Colonial Families and discuss the corresponding questions.
- Read and discuss the New Jersey Colony focusing on the economy, geography, government, and freedoms, using Houghton Mifflin Harcourt Social Studies New Jersey Student Edition Grade 4. Discuss how the Dutch fur trade impacted the relationship between Europeans and the Lenape.
- Read about and discuss the power conflicts between Sweden, the Netherlands, and England. Discuss how New Jersey was divided into East and West Jersey. Compare and contrast the two sides (e.g. Quakers in West Jersey and Puritans in East Jersey), then discuss them reuniting as a royal colony.
- Possible culminating activity - Colonial Shark Tank: Introduce activity by showing a clip from Shark Tank. The students will choose a colony and make a "sales pitch" to get funding for their colony using their knowledge and research of the colony's geography, economics, leadership, and resources. Students can present the information using a slideshow, poster, pamphlet, etc.

Note: Other strategies to address the learning objectives may include, but are not limited to direct instruction, self and peer review, think-pair-share activities, creating visual representations film analysis, Socratic seminars, small group discussions, simulations, jigsaw activities, gallery walks, web quests, and/or inquiry or problem based learning projects.

Assessment

When taking a Social Studies course, students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Many of the performance tasks below can be implemented as formative and/or summative assessments. As teachers strive for students to demonstrate proficiency, they will need to create additional or alternative assessments based on demonstration or absence of skill.

Formative Assessments:

- Students will demonstrate understanding of the similarities and differences of the motives for colonization and colonies in the different regions through exit tickets, summaries, Venn Diagrams, and discussions.

Summative Assessments:

- Students will explain the similarities and differences of the motives for colonization and colonies in the different regions through written and/or oral expression by establishing and supporting a claim; "Shark Tank" project.

Alternative Assessments:

- Oral presentation with visual model such as a Google slideshow to demonstrate understanding of concepts; drawing models for vocabulary; curation project

Benchmark Assessments:

- Please consult the Assessment Guide in the K-5 Drive for a list of Benchmark Assessments
