Course(s):
Time Period: Marking Period 1
Length: 1 Quarter
Status: Published

Brief Summary of Unit

In this unit, students will discover the proscenium arch theater and learn basic staging directions as they pertain to this most common theatrical space.

Revised: June 2023

Essential Questions

- What is staging?
- What is meant by the “fourth wall”?
- How can an actor maximize their stage presence?

Enduring Understandings

- Staging is everything an actor does onstage - where they are, where they go, when they go, what they do when they get there
- The “fourth wall” is an invisible wall along the proscenium through which an audience views theater
- Upstage center is the most powerful position onstage; the downstage corners are often the least noticed

Students Will Know/ Students Will be Skilled At

Students will know:

- Stage directions such as upstage, downstage, stage left, and stage right
- What the “fourth wall” is and what breaking it looks like
- Where audiences tend to look onstage

Students will be skilled at:

- Demonstrating prescribed staging
- “Cheating out” to ensure best chance of being seen and heard
- Correctly identifying cues for entrances and exits
- Arranging themselves onstage to maximize how many students can be seen

Learning Plan

- Discuss essential questions
- Establish stage directions (upstage, stage left, etc)
- Demonstrate these positions upon request
- Discuss proscenium arch theater
- Experience examples of media including film and television where the fourth wall is broken
- Discuss the importance of the audience seeing an actors’ face
- Practice delivering a short scene on the same plane while cheating out
- Rehearse and practice a group scene
- Perform staging prescribed within the scene
- Practice entrances and exits to improve pacing
- Discuss “windows” in theater
- Practice arranging students into windows
- Split the class in half and have half the class arrange themselves onstage and then have the other examine it and discuss where their eye is drawn and why

Evidence/ Performance Tasks

Fine and Performing Arts students demonstrate differentiated proficiency according to their ability to answer the essential questions through formative and summative assessments. Evidence of progression may be demonstrated in divergent ways through the Artistic Processes of Creating, Performing/ Presenting/ Producing, Connecting, and Responding.

- Discussion of essential questions
- Observation of understanding through staging exercises
- Discussion and demonstration of stage directions
- Demonstration of cheating out
- Turn and talk
- Self-assessment
- Student explanation of what they see and feel
- Presentations of staging arrangements
- Independence assessed by grade level

Materials

The materials used in this course allow for integration of a variety of instructional, supplemental, and intervention materials that support student learners at all levels in the school and home environments. Associated web content and media sources are infused into the unit as applicable and available.

- Notebook
- Scenes from last year's play/musical
