

Unit 4 Writing: Synthesis Essay

Content Area: English Language Arts
Course(s):
Time Period: Trimester 3
Length: 10 Weeks
Status: Published

Brief Summary of Unit

The purpose of this unit is to challenge students to identify the relationships among a variety of sources. While synthesizing, students will learn how to look through a focused lens illustrating how the texts compare or relate. They may ask themselves: How are these sources alike? How do they relate? What common thread or pattern weaves its way through the sources? These skills will help acclimate students to the tasks and types of questions that they may encounter on the NJSLA exam while having them continue to practice general writing skills that can be used today and every day (in ELA & other subjects). To immerse students in synthesis, offer a variety of activities done in pairs and individually. Finally, students will create a product, synthesizing a variety of sources.

This unit is designed to be part of a developmental progression across grade levels and make interdisciplinary connections across content areas including physical and social sciences, technology, career readiness, cultural awareness, and global citizenship. In this course, students are provided with opportunities to develop skills that pertain to a variety of careers.

Revised July 2023

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Developmental progression across years in both reading and writing is evidenced by multiple benchmark assessment screeners, administered three times per year. Follow up diagnostic assessments are used to target skill remediation. Student proficiency allows for additional or alternative assessment based on demonstration or absence of skill.

Students demonstrate differentiated proficiency through both formative and summative assessments in the classroom. Based on individual student readiness and performance, assessments can be implemented as formative and/or summative.

The performance tasks listed below are examples of the types of assessments teachers may use in the classroom and the data collected by the district to track student progress.

Formative:

- Various photo prompts and story starters to provide low risk writing opportunities
- Descriptive language "show and tell" guessing game: Students bring an object from home that they can describe in vivid detail. All objects are displayed. As writer reads their description, class must try to identify the object being described.
- Answer essential questions
- Teacher observations/conferring notes
- Turn and talks
- Partnerships rehearsing their writing
- Peer Conferences/Partnership Discussion and Rehearsing
- Writer's Notebook (quick writes/drafts/prewrites)
- Teacher checklists using mini-lessons for measurable skills
- Writing Conferences: Individual and small group
- Writing Partnership work and discussions
- Writing folders with student work
- Writing pieces to note the growth need of the writer
- Observations
- Listening in on partnership discussion of writing piece
- Drafts online (Google Docs)
- Writing Club work and discussions
- Flashdrafts to provide low stakes writing opportunities (refer to TCWRP p. 22)

Summative including Alternative Assessments:

- Students should have 1-2 final pieces.
- Published pieces
- Score grammar and spelling in final drafts only
- Student portfolios
- During publishing students read their piece to assess oral speaking and reading skills
- Teachers College Reading and Writing Project Learning Progressions
- Teachers College Reading and Writing Project Rubrics and Student Samples
- Rubrics: created for the standards-based report card as well as teacher-created.
- On-demand Writing Assessments

- Synthesis posters using teacher provided or student generated pair texts

Benchmark Assessments:

- Benchmark reading and writing assessments, scored using rubrics, district-created and standards-aligned; based on NJSLA, reported twice per year

- Fountas and Pinnell Benchmark Assessment System, grades 3-8, Levels L-Z, Heinemann (part 3, Writing about Reading section)
- New Jersey Student Learning Assessment (NJSLA)

Learning Plan

Middle School Writing instruction follows a balanced literacy approach including a number of strategies and techniques in Writing Workshop. These include mini-lessons, shared writing, independent writing, small group strategy instruction, one-to-one conferencing, partnerships and/or writing clubs. Writing Workshop emphasizes immersion, independence, and choice. Individual conferences with each student will address specific needs of the writer. Each unit ends with a celebration of learning where writers share their work with others in the school community.

Lessons should follow the mini-lesson format:

- Teaching point(s) for each lesson
- Connection: Connects new learning to previous learning/lessons
- Teach/Modeling: Uses ‘think alouds’ when modeling what you expect students to do
- Guided Practice/Active Engagement: Guides students through practice of the teaching point
- Link to Independent Practice: Helps writers understand the purpose for the writing they are about to do and the skills/craft they will be practicing/applying independently as good writers
- Independent Writing/Student Conferences: Provides time for students to do independent writing while teacher confers with individual students, works with small groups, or writing clubs.
- Closure/Sharing: Pull students back together and recognize the work they have done relating to the teaching point.

The architecture of a writing conference includes:

- Research
- Decide
- Teach and Coach with guided practice
- Link

Throughout the year, students write in all modes of rhetoric including narration/description, argument/persuasion, and exposition. A variety of writing forms, including digital writing, are emphasized. Grammar lessons are embedded in writing instruction, holding students accountable for skills taught and practiced; modeling is done through published and student-crafted mentor texts. Teachers focus equally on process and product with an emphasis on synthesizing across texts for nuanced understandings; teacher-created multi-modal text sets will be used as materials. High-and low-stakes writing and timed and untimed assignments will be used throughout the unit.

Sentence study teaches syntax, diction, grammar, and punctuation. Students will learn how to write like an author by mimicking specific sentence patterns and applying it to their own writing. Please see this grade level folder for details.

Teachers may personalize instruction during this unit and address the distinct learning needs, interests, aspirations, or cultural backgrounds of individual students.

This particular unit focuses on developing compelling arguments about characters, ideas, or events; supporting ideas with carefully chosen evidence; and exploring themes, issues, and lessons relevant to the books students read and the lives they live. Students will grow insights and sharpen their analytical writing skills, including their ability to incorporate text evidence. Students will develop their writing fluency in the unit, their ability to express their ideas clearly and support them with lots of detail, with high volume, and at an efficient rate.

This unit also supports students in thinking logically and flexibly and in transferring all they know to their test taking (NJSLA) writing tasks. During this unit students will read short texts and write several pieces to demonstrate they can read and understand sufficiently complex texts independently; write effectively when using and analyzing sources; and build and communicate knowledge by integrating, comparing, and synthesizing ideas.

For this particular unit, teachers should...

- Select texts that mimic NJSLA writing tasks
- Prepare materials for discussion, writing, and synthesis
- Select mentor texts for modeling
- Prepare for conferences and/or small groups with students
- Prepare materials for review of signposts
- Create formative and summative assessments
