Brief Summary of Unit

“WIDA uses the term ‘multilingual learners’ to describe all students who come in contact with and/or interact in languages in addition to English on a regular basis.” (excerpt from WIDA English Language Development Standards Framework, 2020 Edition Kindergarten - Grade 12). In the Cranford Schools, our children and youth who are, or have been, consistently exposed to multiple languages are referred to as multilingual learners. Our multilingual learners who demonstrate eligibility for English as a Second Language (ESL) services receive our ESL curriculum for the equivalent of one class period (30 minutes daily: grades K-5, 40 minutes daily: grades 6-8, 55 minutes within a 4-day rotation: grades 9-12).

When taking this course, students develop their ability to interpret and express the English language in a manner that promotes effective English communication. Through opportunities to make comparisons between their first language and the English language, students are supported in developing linguistically. Students who demonstrate proficiency in their native language / another language in addition to English, may qualify for the New Jersey State Seal of Biliteracy, an honor that sets them apart from others and makes them marketable when pursuing a career and when engaging with home and global communities.

The curriculum is designed to reflect language development at designated grade-level clusters that correspond to those used with WIDA ACCESS for ELLs (K, 1, 2-3, 4-5, 6-8, 9-12). Students are supported in acquiring social and instructional language with a concentration on English Language Arts (most specifically, in reading comprehension) to promote acquisition of the language for mathematics, science, social studies and language arts. The curriculum is structured into one unit so that teachers have flexibility in incorporating texts, materials and varied resources to promote authentic opportunities for expressive and interpretive communication.

Share grade level descriptors for expressive and interpretive communication to assist students in understanding their present levels of proficiency as related to their organization and density of language usage in addition to their cohesion, organization, precision and grammatical complexity when communicating.

Consult the performance indicators regularly to plan purposeful lessons that support individual student attainment of communicative skills at their present and anticipated levels.

To reinforce literacy skills, provide reinforcement in the mechanics of decoding, reading for meaning and using context clues when students are reading and understanding various texts independently and/or as a class.

Incorporate readings that are rooted in subject-specific content, high frequency vocabulary and everyday expressions that will help students to continue to develop literacy and communicative skills.

To promote expressive communication, differentiate expectations for student output (when speaking and writing).

Utilize charts and tables as references to assist students in visualizing and understanding correct verb usage and structure, as needed.

Incorporate daily classroom routines that reinforce student ability to use situationally appropriate vocabulary and expressions when responding to routinely asked questions.

Personalize questions and model accuracy to support students when they are interacting / providing responses to questions posed.

Provide cues to help students see that their message may not be clear; include facial expressions, repetition of the message, follow up or clarifying questions, playing out the message or restating the message to indicate an obvious mistake, and pop-up grammar.

Incorporate feedback from classroom teachers / content area teachers into lessons to reinforce cross-curricular skills and knowledge.

Evidence/Performance Tasks

Multilingual learners who are eligible for ESL services demonstrate differentiated communicative English language proficiency throughout the year.. Evidence of progression in interpretive and expressive language demonstrates the development of communicative proficiency over time.

The performance tasks below are listed as options for the ESL teacher to implement (based on individual student readiness and performance) either as in-class activities, benchmark assessments and, based on individual student readiness and performance, as formative and/or summative assessments. Present levels of English proficiency will determine the need for additional or alternative assessment based on demonstration or absence of skill.

Gr 2,3:

The Key Language Uses—Narrate, Inform, Explain, and Argue—are present across all grade levels and disciplines. Below are examples of the ways students may engage in each Key Language Use throughout grades 2 and 3 within our ESL program as related to student ability to interpret and express the English language.

Narrate: Develop a sense of narrative structure and the purposes for which people use narratives

Narrate: Structure narratives to express experiences and ideas about familiar places and people

Narrate: Add interactions and reactions to characters' actions to develop characters' inner and outer worlds

Inform: Recognize the difference between imaginative stories and nonfiction informational texts

Inform: Develop an emerging sense of text structure as they interpret and create multimodal representations of their knowledge on topics of interest

Inform: Develop emerging research skills to build knowledge for reports

Explain: Develop a sense of some causal, sequential, and cyclical relationships by observing concrete phenomena

Explain: Report observations of phenomena to build understanding of the world around them

Explain: Interpret and construct multimodal representations, such as diagrams and drawings, to illustrate how or why things work

Argue: State opinions or construct tentative claims and offer those in class discussions

Argue: Recognize the difference between claims with and without support

Argue: Offer observations to support opinions and claims

Argue: Develop emerging research skills to use in constructing claims

Argue: Begin to use data from observations as evidence for their claims

Students are guided regularly to the grade level descriptors for expressive and interpretive communication to understand their present levels of proficiency.

Student progress is assessed according to the type of communication required for the task (expressive or interpretive) and student level as related to the descriptors for each level of proficiency.
