UNIT RATIONALE

Students will be able to express preferences and degrees thereof, especially when referencing free time options and sports. They will also learn the vocabulary for basic body parts and learn the concept of the dative case which refers to indirect objects and how this case changes the forms and endings of words, including with dative prepositions.

ESSENTIAL QUESTIONS

What types activities and sports do Germans especially like?

What types of cultural or sporting events do people mainly visit in Germany?

What is the dative case (what are indirect objects), what types of verbs are typical with it, and how does one structure these forms?

What are the dative prepositions and how are they used?

PRE-ASSESSMENTS

Students will use their newly acquired prior knowledge via guided readings and translation exercises from the chapter exercises as guides going forward. Scaffolding of vocabulary and grammar will be presented whenever appropriate to lead in to the new topic.

In this chapter, students will draw upon their prior knowledge from determining nominative case (subject) forms vs. accusative case (direct object) forms when analyzing the new grammatical case of the dative (indirect objects) when determining declensions on articles and possessives based on case and gender. Word order rules based on accusative and dative determined by nouns vs. pronouns will also be introduced. Prior knowledge of how prepositions worked with the accusative case will also be reviewed and applied to the same concept but now with dative prepositions.

INSTRUCTIONAL PLAN

MODULE 1

---

Student Learning Intentions (SLI) WALT: (We are learning to...)

We are learning to:

- discuss the Germanic love for outdoor activities and sports such as soccer.
- express likes and dislikes to varying degrees.
- inquire about personal preferences.
- identify major body parts.
- use indirect objects (to/form whom) and their forms in German sentences as both nouns and pronouns.
- use dative prepositions to form grammatical phrases.
- know which declined endings to use in the dative case with which gender.

Student Learning Strategies

Note-taking from the board

Brainstorming for cultural awareness = additional notes

Oral repetition for pronunciation

Partner Skits as interviews (written & oral)

Oral Q&A between teacher and student & between students

Short written responses

Completion of homework either in the workbook or assigned on

Google Classroom

Study techniques incl. Quizlet or similar

Success Criteria

Can tell others about the sports and free-time culture of the Germans and what their preferences are.

Can express preferences and dislikes with both nouns and verbal expressions.

Can point to parts of the body and know the German word for it.

Can construct grammatical sentences that involve the use of verbs that lend themselves to dative constructions (indirect objects = to/for whom) and have both the endings and word order reflect the

	patterns dictated by German grammar rules. This includes the use of dative prepositions.
Formative Assessment (drives instructional decisions)	Daily Participation  Homework  Vocab &amp; Grammar Quizzing  Partner Skit  Chapter Test
Activities and Resources	German Textbook "Deutsch Aktuell 1"  Corresponding workbook for homework emphasis  Video series that relates to the vocab and grammar in the textbook  Oral participation  Partner interviews  Q&amp;A  Reading &amp; Translating  Grammar and vocab based exercises  Teacher-generated sheets and activities  Demonstrate an understanding of verbal commands  Create a skit  Create a project on Google Classroom  Internet for references and cultural pictures  Vocab games  Kahoot! games
Suggested Modifications	English Language Learners Native language support: The teacher provides auditory or written content to students in their native language. Adjusted Speech: The teacher changes speech patterns to increase student comprehension. This could include facing the students, paraphrasing, clearly indicating the most important ideas, and speaking more slowly. Visuals: The teacher uses graphics, pictures, visuals, and manipulatives. This helps ELL students better understand and comprehend the subjects at hand. Front-Loading Vocabulary: The teacher front loads vocabulary. This means providing students with a list of important vocabulary words they will need to know for a book, lesson, etc. prior to the lesson being taught. Including pictures to go with the vocabulary words is also very beneficial for the students.

Special Education Students

Chunking: The teacher presents information in a way that makes it easy for students to understand and remember. Chunking is based on the presumption that our working memory is easily overloaded by excessive detail. The best way to deliver information is to organize it into meaningful units. Because students with special needs get overloaded easily, chunking is an effective strategy to use with them.

Checking for Understanding: It is important to constantly check for understanding, especially for students who have accommodations. Teachers want to make sure students understand the concepts being covered in a way that makes sense to them.

Extra time: The teacher provides students with special needs extra time to complete work or answer questions. It is important to give students enough time to process their thoughts.

Oral Reading: The teacher will read work orally to students. Class work such as tests and literature circles may need to be read aloud to the student.

Timers: The teacher will use timers as an instructional tool. The use of timers is beneficial for students who have trouble completing tasks. Timers can be helpful so the student is aware of how much time they have to complete an assignment.

Students with 504 Plans

Chunking: The teacher presents information in a way that makes it easy for students to understand and remember. Chunking is based on the presumption that our working memory is easily overloaded by excessive detail. The best way to deliver information is to organize it into meaningful units. Because students with special needs get overloaded easily, chunking is an effective strategy to use with them.

Checking for Understanding: It is important to constantly check for understanding, especially for students who have accommodations. Teachers want to make sure students understand the concepts being covered in a way that makes sense to them.

Extra time: The teacher provides students with special needs extra time to complete work or answer questions. It is important to give students enough time to process their thoughts.

Gifted & Talented Strategies

Extensions/Enrichments: Teachers will provide gifted and talented students with extension/enrichment projects. Students will be challenged to further their understanding, to apply acquired knowledge, and/or to produce something in reference to acquired knowledge.

Modify/Change Activities: Teachers will monitor and modify activities to accommodate those students who need to be challenged further. Additional reading, problem-solving, writing, or project work is necessary for those students who are ready to move on at a rate more accelerated than their peers. In this way, G & T students are provided the same opportunity for support as special needs students.

Students at Risk of School Failure

Directions or Instructions: Make sure directions and/or instructions are given in limited numbers. Give directions/instructions verbally and in simple written format. Ask students to repeat the instructions or directions to ensure understanding occurs. Check back with the student to ensure he/she hasn't forgotten.

Peer Support: Peers can help build confidence in other students by assisting in peer learning. Many teachers use the 'ask 3 before me' approach. This is fine, however, a student at risk may have to have a specific student or two to ask. Set this up for the student so he/she knows who to ask for clarification before going to you.

Alternate or Modified Assignments: Always ask yourself, "How can I modify this assignment to ensure the students at risk are able to complete it?"

Sometimes you'll simplify the task, reduce the length of the assignment or allow for a different mode of delivery. For instance, many students may hand something in, the at-risk student may jot notes and give you the information verbally. Or, it just may be that you will need to assign an alternate assignment.

Increase One to One Time: When other students are working, always touch base with your students at risk and find out if they're on track or needing some additional support. A few minutes here and there will go a long way to intervene as the need presents itself.

Contracts: It helps to have a working contract between you and your students at risk. This helps prioritize the tasks that need to be done and ensure completion happens. Each day write down what needs to be completed, as the tasks are done, provide a checkmark or happy face. The goal of using contracts is to eventually have the student come to you for completion sign-offs.
