Unit Overview

Globalization and Religion in Colonial America (1600-1776)

North American Colonial educational institutions were based on the idea that attaining knowledge of religion was the most important aspect of social living.

Nationalism, Multiculturalism, and Moral Reform in the New Republic (1783-1800)

Educational reform movements and philosophies developed during the 18th through 20th centuries as a result of educational institutions tailoring away from religion.

The Ideology and Politics of the Common School - The Common School and the Threat of Cultural Pluralism

The ideology and politics of the public schools system in the 19th century changed due to the influx of immigrants, new members of society, and American expansion.

Transfer

Students will be able to independently use their learning to trace the birth of colonial education through the development of the common school era

Meaning

Understandings

Students will understand that...

- religion played a major role in early American education during the 18th century.
- different teaching philosophies developed to reform public education as the role of religion lessened.
- common schools attempted to resist cultural pluralism in public schools due to immigration.

Essential Questions

Students will keep considering...

- How do you interpret history? What is history for? For what purposes do we study the history of education?
- In what ways did colonial belief systems impact and influence the goals and purposes of education?
- How has the relationship between education and religion changed over time? Why do you think the link between the two was so strong during colonial times?
- Think about the purposes of education during colonial times. How were the social functions of education in colonial times similar to or different from the social functions of education today?
- In what ways do you think the common schools succeeded, and in what ways did they fail to realize their goals? Can you recognize any educational goals from the Common School Movement that are still present in today's educational system?
- How did teaching philosophies change in public education?
- Why was cultural pluralism a threat to the Protestant Anglo-American culture? What is the current perception of the relationship between schools and cultural pluralism?

CRP.K-12.CRP1.1	Career-ready individuals understand the obligations and responsibilities of being a member of a community, and they demonstrate this understanding every day through their interactions with others. They are conscientious of the impacts of their decisions on others and the environment around them. They think about the near-term and long-term consequences of their actions and seek to act in ways that contribute to the betterment of their teams, families, community and workplace. They are reliable and consistent in going beyond the minimum expectation and in participating in activities that serve the greater good.
CRP.K-12.CRP2.1	Career-ready individuals readily access and use the knowledge and skills acquired through experience and education to be more productive. They make connections between abstract concepts with real-world applications, and they make correct insights about when it is appropriate to apply the use of an academic skill in a workplace situation.
CRP.K-12.CRP4.1	Career-ready individuals communicate thoughts, ideas, and action plans with clarity, whether using written, verbal, and/or visual methods. They communicate in the workplace with clarity and purpose to make maximum use of their own and others' time. They are excellent writers; they master conventions, word choice, and organization, and use effective tone and presentation skills to articulate ideas. They are skilled at interacting with others; they are active listeners and speak clearly and with purpose. Career-ready individuals think about the audience for their communication and prepare accordingly to ensure the desired outcome.
CRP.K-12.CRP6.1	Career-ready individuals regularly think of ideas that solve problems in new and different ways, and they contribute those ideas in a useful and productive manner to improve their organization. They can consider unconventional ideas and suggestions as solutions to issues, tasks or problems, and they discern which ideas and suggestions will add greatest value. They seek new methods, practices, and ideas from a variety of sources and seek to apply those ideas to their own workplace. They take action on their ideas and understand how to bring innovation to an organization.

CRP.K-12.CRP8.1

Career-ready individuals readily recognize problems in the workplace, understand the nature of the problem, and devise effective plans to solve the problem. They are aware of problems when they occur and take action quickly to address the problem; they thoughtfully investigate the root cause of the problem prior to introducing solutions. They carefully consider the options to solve the problem. Once a solution is agreed upon, they follow through to ensure the problem is solved, whether through their own actions or the actions of others.

CRP.K-12.CRP9.1

Career-ready individuals consistently act in ways that align personal and community-held ideals and principles while employing strategies to positively influence others in the workplace. They have a clear understanding of integrity and act on this understanding in every decision. They use a variety of means to positively impact the directions and actions of a team or organization, and they apply insights into human behavior to change others' action, attitudes and/or beliefs. They recognize the near-term and long-term effects that management's actions and attitudes can have on productivity, morals and organizational culture.

CRP.K-12.CRP10.1

Career-ready individuals take personal ownership of their own education and career goals, and they regularly act on a plan to attain these goals. They understand their own career interests, preferences, goals, and requirements. They have perspective regarding the pathways available to them and the time, effort, experience and other requirements to pursue each, including a path of entrepreneurship. They recognize the value of each step in the education and experiential process, and they recognize that nearly all career paths require ongoing education and experience. They seek counselors, mentors, and other experts to assist in the planning and execution of career and personal goals.

SOC.6.1.12

U.S. History: America in the World: All students will acquire the knowledge and skills to think analytically about how past and present interactions of people, cultures, and the environment shape the American heritage. Such knowledge and skills enable students to make informed decisions that reflect fundamental rights and core democratic values as productive citizens in local, national, and global communities.

SOC.6.1.12.1

Colonization and Settlement (1585-1763)

SOC.6.1.12.A.1.a

Explain how British North American colonies adapted the British governance structure to fit their ideas of individual rights, economic growth, and participatory government.

SOC.6.1.12.A.1.b

Analyze how gender, property ownership, religion, and legal status affected political rights.

SOC.6.1.12.CS1

Colonization and Settlement: North American Colonial societies adapted European governmental, economic, and cultural institutions and ideologies to meet their needs in the New World.

TECH.8.1.12

Educational Technology: All students will use digital tools to access, manage, evaluate, and synthesize information in order to solve problems individually and collaborate and to create and communicate knowledge.

TECH.8.1.12.A.3

Collaborate in online courses, learning communities, social networks or virtual worlds to discuss a resolution to a problem or issue.

TECH.8.1.12.A.4

Construct a spreadsheet workbook with multiple worksheets, rename tabs to reflect the data on the worksheet, and use mathematical or logical functions, charts and data from all worksheets to convey the results.

TECH.8.1.12.A.5

Create a report from a relational database consisting of at least two tables and describe the process, and explain the report results.

TECH.8.1.12.A.CS2	Select and use applications effectively and productively.
TECH.8.1.12.B.CS1	Apply existing knowledge to generate new ideas, products, or processes.
TECH.8.1.12.B.CS2	Create original works as a means of personal or group expression.
TECH.8.1.12.C.1	Develop an innovative solution to a real world problem or issue in collaboration with peers and experts, and present ideas for feedback through social media or in an online community.
TECH.8.1.12.D.CS2	Demonstrate personal responsibility for lifelong learning.
