

Introduction to the Teaching Profession Marking Period 1

Content Area: Social Studies
Course(s): Generic Course
Time Period: 1st Marking Period
Length: 8-10 Weeks
Status: Published

Unit Overview

Students preparing to work in schools as teachers to demonstrate the content, pedagogical, and professional knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary to help all students learn. This capstone course is designed to prepare new teachers to be: competent in their content area, understand and integrate strong pedagogical practices in engaging ways, recognize and meet the diverse needs of all learners, and demonstrate professional responsibilities. It will provide an integral coverage of practicum teaching observations, discover types of teaching practices, and classroom management techniques. Students will decide a track: elementary or secondary and the age of students they want to work with in the classroom. Students will identify and implement a variety of teaching methods. They will explore different approaches to teaching ESL students, LBGTQ youth, at risk students, etc. Students will learn the ethics of being a classroom teacher. Students will explore modern current events relating to educationally based topics.

Transfer
