Musical Terminology, Notation, and Instrumental/Vocal Care

This unit introduces students to the language and nomenclature of music, emphasizing traditional vocabulary rooted in Italian and English that describes styles, techniques, and musical expressions in both instrumental and vocal contexts. Students will learn to accurately interpret and apply musical signs and markings related to navigation, dynamics, tempo, and articulation. Additionally, the unit covers basic knowledge of common instruments, their components, and maintenance tools. Students will apply this understanding practically in performance and care of their major instrument or voice, fostering well-rounded musicianship and instrument stewardship.

Learning Objectives

- Students will apply knowledge and skills related to their major instrument in practical performance and maintenance contexts.
- Students will become familiar with and apply in-depth knowledge of the language and nomenclature of music in both instrumental and vocal contexts
- Students will correctly identify and apply note articulations that indicate how particular notes should be played or sung in both instrumental and vocal contexts.
- Students will correctly identify and apply signs or markings in music that provide directions on where to play or sing next in both instrumental and vocal contexts.
- Students will correctly identify and apply signs or markings that indicate expected dynamic levels and changes in volume in both instrumental and vocal music contexts.
- Students will correctly identify and apply words or markings that designate specific, relative, or changing tempos in both instrumental and vocal music contexts.
- Students will identify common instruments, their parts, and tools needed for maintenance and repair in both instrumental and vocal music settings.
- Students will learn and apply the traditional vocabulary of music—primarily rooted in Italian and English—that describes various conditions, styles, techniques, and other aspects specific to musical culture in both instrumental and vocal settings.
