Targeted Standards

VPA.1.1.12.C.3	Apply the basic physical and chemical properties (e.g., light, electricity, color, paint, scenic construction, costumes, makeup, and audio components) inherent in technical theatre to safely implement theatre design.
VPA.1.1.12.C.CS3	Theatre production is an art, but it is also a science requiring knowledge of safety procedures, materials, technology, and construction techniques.

Rationale & Transfer Goals

Safety is an important component to all content areas, especially the arts. Students should become familiar with the rules and laws governing safety procedures, proper use of all building materials, technology and construction techniques so that they can act responsibly and implement these standards. They are also expected to demonstrate positive work behaviors and ethics, the ability to work individually and cooperatively in groups, and respect each other's cultural and social backgrounds.

Enduring Understandings - What are the most essential conclusions that students should be guided towards throughout this unit?

Theatre artists rely on intuition, curiosity, and critical inquiry.

Theatre artists allow awareness of interrelationships between self and others to influence and inform their work.

Theatre artists understand and can communicate their creative process as they analyze the way the world may be understood.

Essential Questions - What are the questions that will guide critical thinking about the content in this unit? Essential Questions should be thought starters toward the enduring understandings.

What happens when theatre artists use their imaginations and/or learned theatre skills while engaging in creative exploration and inquiry?

What happens when theatre artists foster understanding between self and others through critical awareness, social responsibility and the exploration of empathy?

What happens when theatre artists allow an understanding of themselves and the world to inform perceptions and theatre and the purpose of their work?
