Rationale and Transfer Goals

W.NW.1.3: Writing Narratives

- W.NW.1.3a: Writing narratives with a clear sequence of events
 - Rationale: Understanding the sequence of events helps students organize their thoughts and communicate their stories clearly. This skill aids in developing logical thinking and storytelling abilities.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will be able to create coherent narratives in various writing tasks across subjects, ensuring their stories and explanations follow a logical order.
- W.NW.1.3b: Using temporal words to signal event order

- Rationale: Temporal words help to clarify the order of events in a narrative, making it easier for readers to follow the storyline. This contributes to clearer and more engaging writing.
- Transfer Goals: Students will use temporal words in different contexts to show the sequence of events, both in narrative and informational writing.
- W.NW.1.3c: Providing a sense of closure in narratives
 - Rationale: A sense of closure helps to conclude stories in a satisfying way, which is important for completing the narrative arc. It also helps students understand the importance of concluding their writing effectively.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will ensure their writing has a clear conclusion in various types of writing, providing completeness and resolution to their work.
- W.NW.1.3d: Focusing on a topic and adding details to strengthen writing
 - Rationale: Adding details enhances writing by providing depth and clarity. Focusing on a topic helps students stay on track and develop their ideas more thoroughly.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will be able to write with greater detail and focus in different contexts, improving the quality and impact of their writing.

L.WF.1.3: Conventions of Writing

- A. Write sentences with increasing complexity
 - Rationale: Writing increasingly complex sentences helps students develop more sophisticated writing skills and enhances their ability to express nuanced ideas.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will apply sentence complexity in various writing tasks, contributing to more dynamic and expressive writing.
- B. Supply the “who,” “is doing,” “what,” in a subject-verb-object sentence frame
 - Rationale: Understanding and using the subject-verb-object structure ensures that sentences are clear and complete, improving overall readability and comprehension.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will construct clear and complete sentences in all types of writing, enhancing their ability to communicate effectively.
- C. Capitalize the first word of a sentence, days of the week, months, names of people, and proper names
 - Rationale: Proper capitalization is a fundamental writing convention that helps with clarity and readability. It also reflects an understanding of standard grammar rules.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will use correct capitalization consistently across different writing tasks, contributing to polished and professional writing.
- D. Match periods, question marks, and exclamation points to statements, questions, commands, and exclamations
 - Rationale: Correct punctuation helps convey meaning and emotion in writing, making it easier for readers to understand the writer’s intent.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will use appropriate punctuation in various types of writing to ensure clear and effective communication.

L.KL.1.1: Command of Standard English Grammar and Usage

- Rationale: Mastery of standard English grammar and usage provides a foundation for clear and effective communication. It is essential for academic and personal writing.
- Transfer Goals: Students will apply standard grammar and usage rules in all writing activities, contributing to accuracy and professionalism in their written work.

W.WP.1.4: Writing Process

- A. With prompts and support, identify audience and purpose before writing
 - Rationale: Identifying audience and purpose helps students tailor their writing to specific goals and readers, making their writing more relevant and effective.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will consider audience and purpose in various writing contexts, improving the relevance and impact of their work.
- B. With prompts and support, find and correct errors of spelling, capitalization, and punctuation after skills have been taught
 - Rationale: Editing and revising are crucial for improving the accuracy and clarity of writing. Learning to identify and correct errors enhances writing quality.
 - Transfer Goals: Students will use editing skills to revise their writing in all contexts, resulting in more accurate and polished final drafts.

W.RW.1.7: Participating in Shared Research and Writing Projects

- Rationale: Participating in shared research and writing projects develops collaboration skills and allows students to contribute to collective knowledge. It also supports the development of research and writing skills.
- Transfer Goals: Students will work collaboratively on research and writing projects, applying their skills to contribute effectively and learn from peers.
