Assessments

Please Note: Assessments can be on-going and/or through student conferences too. Daily student writing samples can be used to assess any particular skills or overall writing ability. Your assessment does NOT need to be centered on a single continuous piece of writing, but rather multiple writings to give the students daily practice. The Formative and Summative assessments listed below are just suggestions for your consideration.

Formative Assessments

1. September 13 – Narrative Writing Overview

- Skills to Assess: Understanding of narrative writing basics (differences and similarities between personal and fictional narratives).
- Assessment Type: Quick write or exit ticket summarizing the key elements of narratives.

2. September 20 – Establishing a Situation and Characters (W.4.3A)

- Skills to Assess: Ability to introduce a situation and characters in a narrative.
- Assessment Type: Short narrative draft focusing on introducing the narrator and characters; peer review checklist.

3. September 27 – Dialogue and Description (W.4.3B)

- Skills to Assess: Use of dialogue and description to develop experiences and events.
- Assessment Type: Writing a scene with dialogue and detailed descriptions; teacher-student conferences.

4. October 4 – Character Responses (W.4.3B)

- Skills to Assess: Showing character responses to situations within the narrative.
- Assessment Type: Narrative revision exercise focusing on character responses; group feedback sessions.

5. October 11 – Transitional Words and Phrases (W.4.3C)

- Skills to Assess: Use of transitions to manage the sequence of events.
- Assessment Type: Revising narratives to include a variety of transitions; peer review with a focus on flow and sequence.

6. October 18 – Concrete Words and Sensory Details (W.4.3D)

- Skills to Assess: Use of concrete words and sensory details to enhance narrative imagery.
- Assessment Type: Descriptive writing exercise, focusing on imagery and sensory details; teacher feedback on precision of language.

Summative Assessments

1. October 25 – Drafted Narrative with All Components (W.4.3A-E)

- Skills to Assess: Ability to draft a complete narrative with an introduction, dialogue, transitions, sensory details, and a conclusion.
- Assessment Type: Submit full draft of narrative for comprehensive feedback (rubric-based grading on narrative elements).

2. November 5 – Peer Review and Final Revisions (W.4.5, W.4.6)

- Skills to Assess: Ability to revise based on peer feedback and incorporate technology in the writing process.

Spiraling for Mastery

Content or Skill for this Unit	Spiral Focus from Previous Unit	Instructional Activity
Focus: Revisiting Dialogue, Description, and Character Responses (Suggested Date: October 4)		Dialogue Scavenger Hunt: Give students excerpts from famous narratives, and have them highlight examples of dialogue. They will then rewrite a section of the excerpt, changing the dialogue to enhance the characters' interactions. Character Response Reflection: Ask students to pick a character from their own narrative and write a short reflection on how their character's responses have evolved since the initial draft. This will reinforce their understanding of character development and dialogue. Peer Feedback: Partner students to share their progress, focusing specifically on dialogue and how it develops the characters and plot.
Focus: Strengthening Conclusions and Transitions (Suggested Date: November 1)		Transition Word Challenge: Create a list of transitional words and phrases on the board. Have students revise a paragraph of their narrative by replacing simple transitions with more sophisticated ones, ensuring smooth flow

		between events. Conclusion Writing Mini-Workshop: Have students revisit their draft conclusions and brainstorm alternate ways to end their story. Discuss different types of conclusions (e.g., reflective, circular, or cliffhanger) and allow students to experiment with their narrative endings. Self-Assessment Checklist: Provide students with a checklist focusing on transitions, conclusions, and overall narrative coherence. Have them use this to self-assess their work before the final peer review session.

Career Awareness, Exploration, Preparation, and Training

Students will explore how storytelling techniques are utilized in various careers, such as journalism, film, and creative writing, and will engage in activities that build communication and narrative skills essential for these professions.

Life Literacies & Key Skills

Students will develop essential life skills, such as clear communication, critical thinking, and creativity, by learning how to craft and organize narratives that convey ideas effectively and connect with their audience.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Students will make interdisciplinary connections by incorporating concepts from social studies, science, and art into their narrative writing, allowing them to explore real-world experiences and imagined scenarios from multiple academic perspectives

Example:

- 1.) Incorporating historical figures or events into their writing (historical fiction)
- 2.) Incorporating science facts or concepts into their narrative writing as actions or settings (exploding volcanoes, etc)
