Rationale

The theme of this unit centers on Taking Chances. The recommended texts for this unit include "The Outsiders" by S.E. Hinton and other fiction and non-fiction texts from district-approved materials. By exploring these examples, students will evaluate characters who take risks and make bold decisions, reflecting on the consequences and personal growth that result from these actions. By the end of this unit, students will understand that taking chances involves navigating risk and uncertainty, leading to potential failure or success, and fostering personal growth and resilience.

Student mastery will be evaluated through a benchmark test assessing their ability to analyze the structures of both fiction and nonfiction texts, cite textual evidence, draw conclusions, and interpret central ideas. The unit will also assess students' proficiency in argumentative writing, emphasizing their ability to explore topics thoroughly and articulate ideas clearly and persuasively. Additionally, students will engage in discussions and collaborative activities to demonstrate their understanding of taking chances. These activities will foster critical thinking, reading, writing, and communication skills essential for their academic growth and personal development.

Enduring Understandings Overarching Understanding

Taking chances often involves risk, uncertainty, and the potential for both failure and success. Propaganda and censorship influence the decisions we make.

What does it mean to take a chance, and why is it important in life?

How does censorship and propaganda shape the decisions we make?

Content Specific	Skills Specific
<ul> <li>How do characters in "The Outsiders" take risks, and what are the outcomes of their actions?</li> <li>What motivates individuals to take chances, and how do these decisions impact their lives and the lives of others?</li> <li>How has history proven that power has the ability to trump humanity?</li> <li>In what ways has propaganda been used to mislead the public in many different situations?</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>How can we use evidence from texts to support our arguments effectively?</li> <li>What strategies can we use to develop a well-structured and persuasive argument?</li> <li>How do fiction and nonfiction texts provide different perspectives on the theme of taking chances?</li> <li>How can I analyze two texts that have conflicting information and decide whether it differs in fact or interpretation?</li> </ul>
