Rationale

This unit, focusing on Early American Literature through a Nation Divided, prepares students for new learning and life outside of school by fostering critical thinking, cultural awareness, and effective communication skills. By exploring the complexities of America's formation and the conflicts that arose, students gain a deeper understanding of historical and cultural contexts that continue to shape contemporary society. The unit's emphasis on analyzing diverse perspectives, constructing well-supported arguments, and engaging in thoughtful discussions equips students with the tools to navigate and contribute meaningfully to an increasingly interconnected world. Through informative and expository writing, students enhance their ability to convey complex ideas clearly and persuasively, a skill essential for academic success and professional endeavors.

This unit will prepare students for the benchmark and summative assessments by systematically developing their analytical and writing skills through the study of Early American Literature and historical texts. By engaging with diverse narratives and complex characters, students will practice citing textual evidence, analyzing themes, and understanding authors' purposes. Focused lessons on rhetorical devices, figurative language, and text structure will enhance their ability to interpret and articulate sophisticated ideas. Additionally, continuous writing exercises, peer reviews, and targeted feedback will refine their expository writing abilities, ensuring they can effectively convey their insights and arguments in the final assessments.
