Content Area: ESL
Course(s):
Time Period: MP1
Length: 45
Status: Published

Unit Focus

The focus on LCD C will be to prepare ML students for full integration into mainstream classes. This year will begin with a short review from LCD B (for evaluation, work groups, and re-teaching stations), then progress into explaining and presenting both concrete and abstract ideas, summarizing texts without extraneous information, writing 5 to 7 paragraph responses with connection to self, other texts, or world events. The emphasis this year will be on rigorous reading, analytical writing, academic discussion, research, and content-specific language (having been exposed to and practicing the academic vocabulary from LCD A and B).

Rationale

This year-long English expanding language program will prepare our MLs for choice. Choice in school: participating in extracurricular activities at school (for enrichment), getting good grades in school (to earn awards, thereby increasing pride and confidence), and choosing post-school opportunities. College, trade school, or simply traveling in the US and speaking to people. The opportunities increase for people who can communicate well in more than one language. This unit intentionally begins with personal narratives to validate students' backgrounds and lower the affective filter. By connecting personal identity to academic identity, we bridge the gap between social language and the formal, analytical language required by NJSLA standards. The focus on tone, perspective, and word families provides the immediate, high-utility vocabulary and syntax students need to move from personal reflection to academic analysis.

This year, the instructor will focus on: Reading - textual evidence, central ideas, structure and format, plus integration (or synthesis) of knowledge. Writing - narrative, argumentative, explanatory, and research. Language- grammar, academic vocabulary, and language conventions. Speaking & Listening- collaborative discourse, arguments (or debates), and presentations.
