April Gr.2 : Spring Writing Projects

Content Area: English

Course(s):

Time Period: April

Length: 6-8 Weeks Status: Published

Unit Overview

This unit was created to supplement the Fundamentals Writing Program with projects that diversify the students' writing experience and complement the season in which they are written. The projects will help students understand the writing process for different types of prose. The books in the study will help students read closely, think about the seasonal aspects of the theme and expand their writing repertoire. The texts span multiple genres, styles, structures, and themes. The topics will allow students to connect to seasons, holidays and themselves as they grow and explore their writing abilities.

Enduring Understandings

Personal narratives, posters, letters and poems are a form of writing that allows the writer to tell stories from thier own lives and express a point of view. They help the writer tell the readers about who they are and what they know and feel.

Essential Questions

How do authors' tell their stories through personal narratives, poetry, letters and poems and what process and techniques do they use to create successful narrative writing?

Instructional Strategies & Learning Activities

Differentiation

Based on invidual need, teachers will offer additional support though conferencing, modified mentor text, peer support and individualized mini-lessons.

Advanced learners will be offered more rigorous mentor texts to emulate, teacher conferences and reference materials to support in-depth writing endeavors, based on choice.

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.

• Definitions of Differentiation Components:

- Content the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
- o Process how the student will acquire the content information.
- o Product how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
- Learning Environment the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Based on invidual need, teachers will offer additional support though conferencing, modified mentor text, peer support and individualized mini-lessons.

Advanced learners will be offered more rigorous mentor texts to emulate, teacher conferences and reference materials to support indepth writing endeavors, based on choice.

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:
Discussion
Teacher conferences worksheets
Anecdotal records
Student drafts
Summative Assessments

summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Student Self-Reflection uses a self-reflection questionnaire.

Rationale: Students are more engaged learners when they are actively involved in the evaluation process. Teaching students to reflect on their own growth as writers and the effectiveness of the strategies they use will help them set goals for their future as independent writers.
