Unit Overview

This unit is a study of non-fiction reading. Students will practice close reading skills, making inferences, learn new vocabulary and use textual evidence to read through a Storyworks unit.

Enduring Understandings

Students will understand that being able to identify and use various elements in a story will give clues to understanding the author's intent.

Essential Questions

How does a reader use nonfiction to:

- Develop vocabulary skills
- Determine main ideas with close reading
- Learn to use textual evidence
- Develop inference skills

Instructional Strategies & Learning Activities

These two Storyworks Units are representative of the units that occur yearlong with Storyworks. Reading materials and videos will differ throughout the year.

Day 1

Activities:

- Look at p. 4 and 5. Ask the students what do these lines make you ask yourself
- Read the up close box- either you or a student should read out loud
- Have students pair with a partner and look at the pictures and read all boxes and under each picture.
- Students should read the article as a whole class – either students take turns reading out loud or use the recording.
- Distribute the vocabulary activity and read the vocabulary words to the students. With a partner, students should go to the article. The vocabulary words are written in bold. They should use context clues to figure out what the words mean. Write the meaning on the handout. Check the meaning in the dictionary or use dictionary.com and write the correct definition on the sheet.

Assessment: Evaluate Vocabulary sheet

Homework: finish vocab sheet

Day 2

Activities:

- Review the vocabulary homework so that everyone has the correct definitions.
- Students should individually reread the article so that they are close reading it.
- Students will individually fill out the close reading questions and critical thinking question.

Assessment: Evaluate Close reading and critical thinking questions

Homework: Finish close reading questions and critical thinking question.

Day 3

Activities:

- Review the close reading questions and critical thinking question so that everyone has the correct answer.
- Show the video on Dolphins
- Students will summarize the article using the graphic organizer and inference sheet

Assessment: Evaluate the students' summaries

Homework: Finish the summary and do making inferences sheet

Day 4

Activities:

- Review homework on summaries and inferences
- Students will do problems and solutions sheet with partners
- Students will start Write to Win on page 9 individually

Assessment: Evaluate handout on inferences and handout on problems and solutions

Homework: Write to Win on page 9

Day 5

Activities:

- Review homework Write to Win
- Students take quiz and vocab quiz
- Do pre-reading for "Malala the Powerful" (you or a students read the up close box on p. 23 out loud, ask based on the photo and headlines what do you think Malala is like? Have studnets look at the title of the poem on page 25 and the photo that goes with it, Ask: How is that photo similar to the one of

Malala?

Assessment: Grade quizzes

Homework: none

“Mahala the Powerful” requires the students to compare two different texts – an informational article with a poem. There are important social studies and current events connections.

Objectives:

- Make connections between an informational text and a poem.
- Develop vocabulary skills
- Analyze writing structure to include supporting details
- Develop inference skills
- Reinforce figurative language

Materials: Storyworks booklet, handouts

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.

- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Lower level version of the article, two levels for graphic organizer for summarizing and making inferences, two levels for the comprehension quiz

Advanced students – research “swim with dolphin programs”

Modifications & Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

IEP and 504 Accommodations will be utilized.

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

DRA

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

AIMS Web

Comprehension Questions

Reflections and personal connections

Text to text connections

Linkit testing 3 times a year.

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

Vocab Sheet

Close reading and critical reading questions

Student written summaries

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.
